Bulletin of Bibliography and Dramatic Index

FREDERICK WINTHROP FAXON, EDITOR

Volume 7

April 1912 to October 1913

COMPLETE IN SEVEN NUMBERS

BOSTON

The Boston Book Company
83-91 Francis St., Fenway

THE BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY is issued quarterly by THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY. $2.00 a year. Single numbers, 50c. Back numbers of vols. 1-7, as far as in print, 30 cents each. Volumes 1-7 (1897-1913) in cloth, uniformly bound, $20.00. Separate volumes $3.00 each, except that volumes 1 and 6 are $3.50 each, and volume 7, $2.50. Cases for binding subscribers' volumes, 50c.

The material in the "Dramatic Index" department of the BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY is reprinted annually with additions in one alphabet.

The Dramatic index for 1909, 1910, 1911, 1912, is issued in separate form, price, $3.50 net, each, bound in red buckram.

The special work of THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY is to supply libraries with collated and perfect sets of periodicals — using the term periodical in its broadest sense to cover year books and the publications of societies, as well as magazines and reviews in any language. The favor of correspondence is requested whenever a periodical set or a part of a set is desired.

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY also publishes books of reference, bibliographies, and reading lists;—"The Useful Reference Series," "Bulletin of Bibliography Pamphlets," etc. Lists of these may be had on application.

Bulletin of Bibliography

And Quarterly Dramatic Index

Vol. 7

APRIL, 1912

No. 1

The BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY is published by the Library Department of THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY four times a year, in January, April, July and October. Terms, $1.00 a year, 30 cents a number. Back numbers, as far as they can be supplied, 30 cents each. The volumes consist of ten numbers with title and index. Price in buckram binding, $3.00 a volume, except vols. 1 and 6, which are $3.50.

In addition to the DRAMATIC INDEX, which began with October, 1909 (vol. 6, no. 1), such original bibliographical and other material is included as seems of value to libraries. The advertisements of "Periodical Sets" in each issue are recognized as the "Prices current" of magazine files.

Correspondence concerning the BULLETIN is solicited, and lists or articles suitable for publication are desired. Address

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY, 83-91 Francis St., Fenway, Boston, Mass.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY VOL. 7

AND

THE MAGAZINE SUBJECT-INDEX, 1912

We announce a change in the BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY which we believe will be welcomed by many libraries, and which will make it necessary to every reference room.

The MAGAZINE SUBJECT-INDEX will no longer appear quarterly in THE BULLETIN, but henceforth will be published only in the book form, annually. The space hitherto occupied by this index will be devoted to timely and useful bibliographies or reading lists; this issue contains one on The Recall, and the first installment of an Index to Fairy Tales, both of which we feel sure will be welcome in even the smallest libraries. This omission of the MAGAZINE SUBJECT-INDEX from these columns has been made only after careful consideration and consultation with many librarians. It had outgrown the limits of the space available, and was not of great use in small libraries which subscribed to but few of the periodicals indexed.

The DRAMATIC INDEX will be continued quarterly, as that covers all periodicals, and the information should be useful up to the minute; it will also be possible to give more space to this feature of the Bulletin, though the annual will still contain probably one-third more material than we can include in the quarterly issues.

ABBREVIATIONS USED IN BOOK CATALOGS

In this useful book issued by The Boston Book Co. in February, some errors in spelling and accents have been found which were not discovered in repeated readings of the proof by different persons. These as far as found are corrected in a later printing. Every library should have this book in easy reach, as it is about the only source of information when these technical terms and abbreviations are met in bibliographies. Cloth, $1.50 net, delivery free.

PERIODICAL INDEXES

Announcement is now made that no five-year volume of Poole's Index for 1907-1911 will be issued. This means that for the present the only general index to some seventy-five periodicals that were formerly covered by Poole's Index will be the Annual Library Index for 1907, 1908, 1909 and 1910. The year 1911 will not be covered even by this annual.

The publishers of the Readers' Guide expect to begin the publication of a Supplement to the Readers' Guide, which will index a portion of this material now unindexed, going back five years to join the last volume of Poole's Index. THE MAGAZINE SUBJECT-INDEX will probably be enlarged to cover the remainder of the periodicals (those formerly in Poole and not in the Readers' Guide) and in its 1912 issue include these for the six-year period. Thus, the Poole field will be divided between the H. W. Wilson Co. and The Boston Book Co., and no future duplication of indexing will occur. The Supplement to the Readers' Guide and the MAGAZINE SUBJECT-INDEX will be the successors of Poole's Index and continue that work.

MAGAZINE SUBJECT-INDEX, 1911

This annual volume is at hand, including as Part II THE DRAMATIC INDEX of 1911. This volume contains 490 pages, and is bound in library buckram, uniform with previous volumes. There are sixteen new periodicals indexed, all of importance and not included elsewhere: Munsey's, Twentieth Century, Strand, American Labor Legislation Review, American Society for Municipal Improvement, 1907 to date, American Sociological Society Publications, vols. 1-5, Academy of Political Science Proceedings, Journal of Accountancy, The Public (weekly), Photo-Era, Mississippi Valley Historical Association, vols. 1-3, American Conservation, vol. 1, Alpina Americana, Mountaineer, vols. 1-4, National Magazine, Bibliographical Society of America (Price $5.50 net, delivery, extra. THE BOSTON BOOK CO.)

DRAMATIC INDEX, 1911

The third annual volume of THE DRAMATIC INDEX is now ready, making a handsome octavo volume of 250 pages, bound in dark red library buckram. It covers books, as well as the book reviews, dramatic articles and illustrations in the periodicals of 1911. It indexes the new quarterly, "The Drama," Chicago.

It is an index to portraits of actors and actresses of the time, indicating the full names and birth dates when possible. It is the only source for authorship of plays and an index to the texts of plays printed during the year, either in books or periodicals. (Price $3.50 net, delivery extra. THE BOSTON BOOK CO.)

INDEX TO LEGAL PERIODICALS

Announcement is made of a new volume of Jones's Index to Legal periodicals. This will cover the period 1899-1910, and will be published probably in the fall of 1912 by THE BOSTON BOOK CO. (Half morocco, $10.00 net.)

PERIODICAL ARTICLES ON RELIGION

Dr. Ernest C. Richardson has recently issued the "Author Index" to Periodical Articles on Religion, 1890-99. This makes a thick octavo volume of 876 pages, a companion book to his Subject-Index to the same period published some years ago. The author list will have considerable use in locating articles by a given writer, in showing the collected writings of specialists, and in furnishing much material of a biographical nature. We commend this work to librarians of all large libraries and of all college libraries. It does not seem possible that even the cost of printing can be covered by its sale, but such work deserves the support of every library. People do not often consider that to answer satisfactorily one question would, without such an index, cost more than its price in time used. We hope this index will soon be brought down another ten years by the issue of a volume for 1900-1909. (Price $5.00 net, Chas. Scribner's Sons.)

MODERN DRAMA AND OPERA

The little volume with the above title, published early last winter, continues to be much in demand among libraries. It is one of the handiest annotated reference lists available, and librarians everywhere are in need of every possible index to this much wanted material. May we commend it to your attention? It covers very thoroughly D'Annunzio, Hauptmann, Ibsen, Jones, Maeterlinck, Phillips, Pinero, Rostand, Shaw, Sudermann, Debussy, Puccini, Richard Strauss. (Cloth, 93 pages, $1.00 net, delivered free anywhere. THE BOSTON BOOK CO.)

THE PRACTICAL USE OF BOOKS AND LIBRARIES

There is a rapidly spreading movement in this country for definite courses of instruction in schools in the use of books. At the recent meeting of the Wisconsin Library Association, a whole session was devoted to papers, and discussions along this line of the Library and the School. The Wisconsin Library Bulletin, Jan.-Feb. 1912, is largely given up to this subject. A book that awaits you when you are ready to start this work is Ward's Practical Use of Books and Libraries (Boston Book Co., $1.00 net, cloth), which is now in use in the Cleveland High Schools as a text-book. There is a "Teaching outline" (50 cents in paper) which will furnish any teacher, who has not had library training, the necessary information to conduct a course in her school class.

The sale of this book since its issue last fall has been large, and no words but commendation for it have thus far been received. While designed as a text-book for school use, it is an attractive and readable primer that may well be put in the hands of all library readers who are unfamiliar with books and don't know how to get information wanted quickly.

We consider it valuable to any library or branch library as a time-saver. Make it work as an assistant on your staff.

AN EXPERT GOING ABROAD

An unusual opportunity to secure British material is offered librarians. Mr. Frederick W. Faxon, who for many years has specialized in periodicals and society transactions, will this summer again visit Great Britain in the interests of the Boston Book Co. He will be glad to take want-lists of periodicals, transactions or publications of Societies and Printing Clubs; — sets, parts of sets, or odd volumes. Such lists should be in the hands of the Boston Book Co. by May 10, if possible. Correspondence concerning this trip will be attended to by Mr. Faxon personally. He will act as your agent on any basis agreeable to you.

COMMERCIAL LAWS OF THE WORLD

The first volume (covering Argentine Republic and Uruguay) of this comprehensive work has been received, and seems to more than fulfill the promises made for it. This valuable series of Commercial Laws will be completed in thirty-five volumes, six devoted to South America, two to the United States, three to Mexico, Cuba and Central America, one to Africa and Asia, six to Great Britain and Ireland and British possessions, and seventeen to Europe.

The Commercial Laws of the World aims to give a complete view of the commercial law of all civilized countries. It includes not only the provisions of the codes of commerce, but of other codes and statutes on mercantile matters, or affecting codes and statutes relating to commercial matters. More especially, it is designed to give the existing law relating to foreign and domestic corporations, general and limited partnerships, sale of goods, factors, brokers, commission merchants, bills of lading and the responsibility of carriers of goods by land and sea, marine insurance, contracts of bottomry, maritime liens, banks and banking, stock exchange contracts, warehouse receipts, bills of exchange, promissory notes and checks, insolvency and bankruptcy, and the commercial treaties.

With each country is given a sketch of its political history as it affects its legal system, a brief history of its legal institutions, a description of its courts and procedure in mercantile cases and the rules of prescription and limitation.

Provision is made for the sale of individual volumes or the volumes pertaining to one country in case purchasers do not wish to subscribe to the entire work. All large city libraries and university libraries will need this publication and the publishers will be glad to send circulars describing the work or a volume on examination, subject to return to any that so request. (The Boston Book Co., publishers. Vol. 1, 994 pages, half dark green morocco, m. e.)

INDEX TO FAIRY TALES

In this issue begins an Index to Fairy Tales which we believe will be welcome in all libraries. It will run through the next four or five issues. We believe this one feature of the BULLETIN will be worth more than the subscription price, and urge all libraries to subscribe which are not already on our list.

RECALL OF PUBLIC OFFICIALS

This timely reference list is complete in this issue, and should be useful as most complete and on a new subject now much before the public. This and the Fairy Tales Index show our new policy of making the BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY of daily use to libraries.

U. S. Laws, statutes, etc. Public resolution no. 8, 62d Cong., 1st sess. Joint resolution to admit the territories of New Mexico and Arizona as states into the Union upon an equal footing with the original states. Approved, August 21, 1911. (In session laws, 62d Cong., 1st sess. pp. 39-43.) (A)

Section 7 contains the text of the amendment excepting members of the judiciary from the recall, which was required of Arizona before admission into the Union.

U. S. President. Special message . . . returning without approval House Joint Resolution no. 14. August 15, 1911. (U. S. 62d Cong., 1st sess. House doc. no. 106.) (A)

This is the President's veto of the resolution admitting New Mexico and Arizona as states into the Union, due to the judicial recall in the Arizona constitution. The entire message is a severe arraignment of the recall for judges.

- First supplement. N. Y. Goodenough, 1899. 21 p. O.
- Second supplement. N. Y. Goodenough, 1900. 10 p. O. Together with its supplements this catalogue contains over 900 titles which have been approved by the literary committee of the Sunday-school library bulletin. The annotations are full, but indiscriminately laudatory, and the list must be used with care, as it includes many authors not approved by librarians — Miss Douglas, "Pansy," Alger and others. The supplements are better chosen, and will prove helpful.
- Griswold, William MacCrillis, comp. Descriptive list of books for the young. Camb., Mass. Griswold, 1895. 175 p. Q. "A classified list, with author and subject indexes. The annotations are from leading reviews. Not always a safe guide." (Kroeger, Guide to reference books.)

Explanatory. Inclusive pages of articles indexed are given. If less than a page the fractions ($\frac{1}{2}$) ($\frac{1}{3}$) ($\frac{1}{4}$) ($\frac{1}{5}$) are used after the page to give an approximate idea of length. The volume, month and year are given for each reference. Where month and year are given preceding the pages, it indicates that each issue of that periodical pages from page 1.

"il." means illustrated. "por.", "pors.", mean article with portrait or portraits. "Portrait" means portrait only, no article. "Portrait (in group)" or "por. (in group)" indicates that one or more other persons appear in the picture. Scenes and acts from plays may be either illustrations or text, and are distinguished by adding in brackets (picture), or (text).

A colon after an initial designates the most usual given name, as per rule adopted by the A. L. A., and by Readers' Guide and Library Index.

a. means only indexed in the annual.

Bulletin of Bibliography

And Quarterly Dramatic Index

Vol. 7

JULY, 1912

No. 2

The BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY is published by the Library Department of THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY four times a year, in January, April, July and October. Terms, $1.00 a year, 30 cents a number. Back numbers, as far as they can be supplied, 30 cents each. The volumes consist of ten numbers with title and index. Price in buckram binding, $3.00 a volume, except vols. 1 and 6, which are $3.50.

In addition to the DRAMATIC INDEX, which began with October, 1909 (vol. 6, no. 1), such original bibliographical and other material is included as seems of value to libraries. The advertisements of "Periodical Sets" in each issue are recognized as the "Prices current" of magazine files.

Correspondence concerning the BULLETIN is solicited, and lists or articles suitable for publication are desired. Address

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY, 83-91 Francis St., Fenway, Boston, Mass.

LIBRARY BUILDING

No. 7 of the "useful reference series" was published in June and has met with a most favorable reception from librarians all over the country. The title, "How to Plan a Library Building for Library Work," explains the primary purpose of the book, but fails to show how very useful the work will be in libraries already planned and in use. There is hardly a year when some change or addition is not made in a library building,—a rearrangement of cases, or tables; a different grouping of the various activities which libraries great and small are constantly assuming; the installation of art loan exhibitions, of pay collections of fiction; the opening of hitherto restricted parts of the shelves to free access,—one could name many probable changes that are needed in almost every library. As the number of books increases there is an ever troublesome and more troublesome problem of where to find room to shelve them. As the staff increases, provision for rest and lunch rooms, for extra locker space must be made. Mr. Soule, who for years has made a special study of library buildings, is probably the best qualified person to suggest the best ways of solving such problems, and he has been called as adviser by many librarians or committees. "How to Plan a Library Building for Library Work" fully covers all such details. It will be found most helpful in every library. The committee entrusted with any changes or repairs will welcome this as a guide and money-saver.

Soule, Charles C. How to Plan a Library Building for Library Work. The Boston Book Co., 1912. xxiv + 404 pages, octavo, Library buckram. $2.50 special net.

BRITISH PERIODICALS

Let us remind our readers once more that Mr. F. W. Faxon, head of our Library Department, is now beginning a thorough canvass of the book shops of Great Britain in the interests of the libraries of the United States. It is not too late to send lists of wants, or of gaps in periodical sets and in Transactions of Societies. Sent to the Boston Book Co., such lists will be at once forwarded to Mr. Faxon, who is ready to buy on commission, or report on items wanted. For example, should any library be desirous of having a file of the important reviews, such as Quarterly, Edinburgh, Nineteenth Century, Contemporary, National, Westminster, here is an opportunity to acquire a good working set in sound binding; for such can be assured by his seeing them before purchase and they can often be had at prices not over what it would cost to re-bind a shabby or unbound set.

This is an opportunity not to be neglected.

BIRD-LORE

We cannot let go by unnoticed a mistake in Miss Van Buren's paper in Public Libraries for April, unfortunately repeated in the Library Journal, notice of the paper, p. 352, of June. Speaking of children's magazines Bird-Lore is mentioned as "harmless but too flabby." Child-lore is intended evidently. Bird-Lore is one of our best bird magazines and should be in all libraries and children's rooms.

MODERN DRAMA

Our little book, "Modern Drama and Opera," has met with such a cordial reception that we are planning to issue in 1913 a Volume 2, which will give reading lists on some fifteen or twenty more authors, and which will have a chapter bringing down to date the thirteen writers covered in Volume 1. We ask our readers for names of dramatists, or opera composers they would like to have included. We should also be glad of offers from librarians who may have such material ready for printing.

PLAYS IN POET LORE

By arrangement with the publisher of Poet Lore, The Boston Book Co. has acquired a large remainder stock of Poet Lore. We have bound up certain important issues in neat gray cloth with paper label, the following seven now ready, delivered free on receipt of price. (Many others in stock, unbound, from 50c. to $2.00 each, according to stock on hand.)

D'Annunzio.	Dream of a Spring Morning	$3.00
D'Annunzio.	Dithyramb (poem).....	3.00

LEGISLATIVE AND MUNICIPAL REFERENCE

We announce for publication next winter a manual by John B. Kaiser on "Law, Legislative and Municipal Reference Libraries." It will be a companion to Ward, "The Practical Use of Books and Libraries," and should prove timely, owing to the recent rapid development of municipal and legislative work.

CITY PLANNING

We commend to the attention of librarians the May issue of Special Libraries, which is entirely given up to a bibliography of city planning, compiled by The Library of Congress, with the co-operation of the Harvard University Department of Landscape Architecture.

COMMERCIAL LAWS OF THE WORLD.

Since our last issue, wherein we noted the publication of Vol. 1 of this comprehensive work, vols. 2, 7, and 8 have appeared. Volume 2 covers Colombia, South America,—giving the Code of Commercial Law, Code of Maritime Commerce, and Supplementing Laws both in Spanish and English, on opposite pages, making a volume of 458 pages, with full contents, and an index of 17 pages. Volumes 7 and 8 covering the United States are a welcome addition to any library. The following topics are covered. American Federal system; Law of English Colonies in America; Bibliography; Courts and Procedure; Contracts, Banks and banking; Commercial Papers Bankruptcy, Sale of Goods; Commercial Agents; Carriers and Warehousemen; Marine Insurance, Partnership in our various States. (The Boston Book Co., publishers. Volumes in uniform half dark green morocco.)

READING LIST ON WILLIAM CLYDE FITCH

By John Adams Lowe, Librarian, Williams College Library

Fitch, Clyde. Barbara Frietchie, the Frederick girl; a play in four acts. 128 p. 17cm. N. Y., Life pub. co., 1900, cloth. 50c.

See also N. Y., S: French. 50c.

In this Civil War play a Northern man loves a Southern girl. She kills a Confederate sharpshooter about to fire upon her lover, who is wounded and dies. She waves the flag in defiance of the Southern army, as does Whittier's Barbara, and is shot by her crazy rebel lover.

— The climbers; a play in four acts. 265 p. 18 cm. N. Y., The Macmillan co., 1906. 75c. 6-131

See also N. Y., S: French. 50c.

The Climbers, which had a considerable degree of success on the stage, is not only a clever satire upon the social climber, but contains some well-devised situations, which make good reading. Fair example of Fitch's capabilities.

A love story is fitted to the historical tale of Nathan Hale. Nathan, a teacher in New London, makes love to Alice Adams, a pupil, who extracts a promise that he will not lead any forlorn hope or needlessly risk his life. He volunteers for spy service, breaks his promise and is captured by his rival, a Tory officer. His love for Alice costs him his life.

See also N. Y., S: French. 50c.

Becky Warder, who has the habit of petty falsehood, fibs to her husband about her hats, about her gambler father's needs, and about her meeting with the man from whom her best friend has separated. As the net of lies closes about her, her much enduring husband ceases to believe in her, and she comes to realize that truth is essential to happiness. A good play to read in a literary club.

SOME LATIN ABBREVIATIONS AND TERMS OCCASIONALLY USED IN BOOK CATALOGS AND BIBLIOGRAPHIES

By FRANK KELLER WALTER

This list supplements the brief one in Abbreviations and Technical Terms Used in Book Catalogs and in Bibliographies (Boston Book Co., 1912). Like its predecessor, it is confined to abbreviations and terms used in the descriptions of books and again like its predecessor, it includes such expressions as actually are used, irrespective of their consistency or philological propriety. The number of Latin terms which the beginner will find in the ordinary trade and national bibliographies and in current catalogs of modern books is relatively small. The cataloger, order clerk, or reference assistant whose work lies, even occasionally, with books, prints or manuscripts of the 18th century or earlier, will find a different state of affairs. Since Latin was the universal language of the educated man, the earlier general bibliographies and catalogs of libraries were usually written in Latin and a profusion of Latin terms was used in the catalogs of booksellers. Even as late as 1838, Hain felt it advisable to use Latin throughout in his Repertorium Bibliographicum. Unfortunately, there was little or no agreement as to exact connotation of terms or as to form of abbreviation, and in many cases the context offers little or no help. The same is true even today of many continental booksellers, some of whom take their entries directly or at second-hand from bibliographers like Hain or Bauer, while some strike out boldly into systems of abbreviations of their own. Both in the old and in modern bibliographies the meanings as well as the spellings are post-classical and in many cases, not to be found in even the standard Latin dictionaries. The desire to avoid monotony by the use of synonyms of doubtful accuracy and expressions of only slightly different meanings adds to the confusion, and with the growing disuse of Latin even among college students, many entries which the college man of two or three decades ago would have found quite plain, are almost or quite unintelligible to many library assistants of the present.

There is no attempt at completeness in this rough list and many terms have been included which may seem unnecessary to the connoisseur while others have been excluded which may now and then confront one in unexpected places. This has been unavoidable since there could be no completeness short of a formal technical dictionary and the selection has been made to depend on actual difficulties likely to be met. Hain, as the source of many later works and of thousands of fugative entries and references, has received rather more attention than many of the others and it is hoped that a fairly full list of terms frequently used by that indefatigable, though inconsistent, bibliographer has been included. Many terms and abbreviations in books used in the former list like Cim, Klemeier, Power, Rouveyre, though previously excluded as of little use in a beginner's list have been inserted here.

Three cautions are necessary in the use of any list like this (1) There is no consistent principle followed in many bibliographies and though p. may be the usual abbreviation for pagina, one is quite as likely to find pag. used in the same work. (2) The plural of nouns is usually formed by doubling the final letter of the abbreviation, e.g.,

p. Page; pp. Pages.

lit. litera. Letter; litt. literæ, Letters.

(3) The same abbreviation is often used indiscriminately for both singular and plural. e.g., s. for both signatura and signaturæ as in Hain.

It is impracticable to list here all the books consulted. Among those from which considerable material was obtained are: Beck, C., Jahrbuch der Bücherpreise, v. 1—5, 1906–10 (Leip., 1907–11); Bauer, J. J., Bibliotheca Librorum Rariorum Universalis, 6 v. (Nürnberg, 1770–74); Cim, Albert, Le Livre, 5 v. (Par., 1908); Copinger, W. A., Supplement to Hain's Repertorium Bibliographicum, 2 v. (Lond., 1895–1902); Catalogue de la Bibliothèque de feu M. J. Decaisne, (Paris, 1883); Hain, Ludovic, Repertorium Bibliographicum, 2 v. (Stuttgart, 1826–38); Pellechet, M., Catalogue Général des Incunabules des Bibliothèques Publiques de France, v. 1–2 (Paris, 1897); Rouveyre, Edouard, Connaissances Nécessaires à un Bibliophile. 10 v. 5th ed. (Paris, 1899). Valuable aid both in the way of material and definition has been received from many of the more general treatises like Ames' Typographical Antiquities; Birt, T., Das antike Buchwesen; Blades' Pentateuch of Printing and his Biography and Typography of William Caxton; Brown's Venetian Printing Presses; Davenport's, The Book, its History and Development; Duff's Early Printed Books; Peignot, Dictionnaire Raisonné de Bibliologie, Reed's Old English Letter Foundries, and the excellent article by Hessels on Typography in the 11th edition of the Encyclopædia Britannica.

Anyone interested is invited to contribute other entries which should be included or to call the attention of the publisher to errors which have crept in either through the oversight of the compiler and those who have assisted him or which are strictly typographical errors arising in the last stages of the printing.

AUGUST STRINDBERG (1849-1912)

A BIBLIOGRAPHY

TRANSLATIONS AND CRITICISM IN ENGLISH

Compiled by Professor Archibald Henderson, M.A., Ph.D. University of North Carolina

AUGUST STRINDBERG.

August Strindberg (born January 22, 1849, died May 14, 1912) celebrated his sixty-third anniversary in 1912, and was presented, by native admirers, with a fund raised by national subscription. The occasion was celebrated in the United States by the Swedish population, notably at Chicago, with the production of Strindberg's most famous historical play, "Gustavus Vasa."

Strindberg is international in fame, ranking as one of the great Scandinavian trio, of which Ibsen and Björnson constitute the remaining figures. His output has been immense, including fifty-five dramatic works, together with a large number of novels, short stories, essays, autobiographical, literary and philosophical, historical and even scientific studies, etc. For the rights to publish the definitive edition of his works in more than fifty volumes, now preparing at Stockholm, the publishers paid Strindberg about $55,000. With the certain widening of his fame, since his death, many translations into English may now be anticipated.

Explanatory. Inclusive pages of articles indexed are given. If less than a page the fractions ($\frac{1}{8}$) ($\frac{1}{3}$) ($\frac{1}{4}$) ($\frac{1}{2}$) are used after the page to give an approximate idea of length. The volume, month and year are given for each reference. Where month and year are given preceding the pages, it indicates that each issue of that periodical pages from page 1.

"il." means illustrated. "por.", "pors.", mean article with portrait or portraits. "Portrait" means portrait only, no article. "Portrait (in group)" or "por. (in group)" indicates that one or more other persons appear in the picture. Scenes and acts from plays may be either illustrations or text, and are distinguished by adding in brackets (picture), or (text).

A colon after an initial designates the most usual given name, as per rule adopted by the A. L. A., and by Readers' Guide and Library Index.

a. means only indexed in the annual.

Bulletin of Bibliography

And Quarterly Dramatic Index

Vol. 7

OCTOBER, 1912

No. 3

The BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY is published by the Library Department of THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY four times a year, in January, April, July and October. Terms, $1.00 a year, 30 cents a number. Back numbers, as far as they can be supplied, 30 cents each. The volumes consist of ten numbers with title and index. Price in buckram binding, $3.00 a volume, except vols. 1 and 6, which are $3.50.

In addition to the DRAMATIC INDEX, which began with October, 1909 (vol. 6, no. 1), such original bibliographical and other material is included as seems of value to libraries. The advertisements of "Periodical Sets" in each issue are recognized as the "Prices current" of magazine files.

Correspondence concerning the BULLETIN is solicited, and lists or articles suitable for publication are desired. Address

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY, 83-91 Francis St., Fenway, Boston, Mass.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

ENGLISH PERIODICALS

A selection from the English purchasers of the past summer will be found on our cover pages, and should be of interest to librarians of college and city libraries.

Mr. Faxon has made a thorough search of the British market for periodical sets, and we are better prepared than ever before to supply libraries with this reference material at reasonable prices and in complete and guaranteed perfect condition. The opportunities of securing periodicals are rapidly lessening, as the supply is reduced, and the market becomes more and more restricted to a few dealers. Our trip this year has shown that unusual diligence in hunting is now required to find what ten or fifteen years ago was easy to secure. We would be glad to correspond with libraries concerning periodical sets needed, and can put at the service of our customers the vast amount of information obtained during the summer regarding the present possibilities of the English market in this our specialty.

THE USE OF PERIODICALS BY LIBRARIES

America vs. England

The use of bound files of periodicals so general in America is strangely enough almost unknown in Great Britain outside of a very few large libraries. In fact, while most of the English libraries have good collections of the principal English reviews (but practically no American sets, however) the use made of them seems hardly to warrant giving them the space they occupy. There is no English index to general periodicals at present and but few libraries subscribe to the American indexes. In fact, the British public seems not to need references to various subjects, so the libraries do not have demands for such material. Whether this mine of information will in time be discovered and worked for their advantage by the readers of Great Britain is a question we shall not here venture to answer. At present the popular periodicals occur only in the "Lending Library," and are not available for reference, while the reviews and heavier magazines find their place in the "Reference Library," whence they cannot be loaned, and, without a "key" or general index, are gathering dust.

ENGLISH AND AMERICAN NEWS STANDS

A glance at an English news stand gives one an impression of a book store, with a few cheaply printed, poorly written periodicals hung about the edges.

An American news stand shows but a few books, but a beautiful display of magazines, well printed and with attractive covers. Of course, the literary quality of the contents of many of them is not high, but the average is distinctly better than the English standard. The 15c and 25c popular monthly, of which America has so many examples, is conspicuous by its absence in Great Britain. One can name on the ten fingers all the available six-penny and shilling periodicals there displayed. But there are dozens of little pamphlet magazines, mostly weeklies, printed on "newspaper" of different hues, and selling for a half-penny, a penny or two pence, and evidently largely read by the working people.

The American news stands carry a few of the copyright novels, or "best sellers," and charge from $1.00 to $1.50 for copies of them. The English news stand is really a book stall and has hundreds of attractive little six-penny, seven-penny and shilling editions of standard novels (Dickens, Scott, Thackeray, etc.) and also good modern fiction. These cheap editions sell rapidly to the traveling public. American publishers could well afford to imitate this, getting out a 25c news-stand edition, bound in cloth, and pocket size after the $1.50 edition has been published about a year.

COMMERCIAL LAWS OF THE WORLD

During the past four months three more volumes of this series have been published by The Boston Book Co. Volume 15 covers the following British Dominions and Protectorates: Isle of Man, Channel Islands, Gibraltar, and Malta make Part I of the volume. British Africa is covered in Part II, giving the commercial laws of South Africa, Sudan, Somaliland, East Africa Protectorate, Zanzibar, Uganda, Northern Rhodesia, Nyasaland, Gambia, Sierra Leone, Gold Coast, Ashanti, Northern Territories, Northern Nigeria, Mauritius, Seychelles, St. Helena, Ascension, and Tristan da Cunha. There is a valuable chapter of 144 pages on the Judicial system, and Commercial Laws of the Union of South Africa.

Volume 21 covers Central Europe. France and her colonies occupy 321 double pages (French and English, opposite) while Monaco completes the volume with 73 pages. Each part is fully indexed, covering the Commercial Codes, Maritime Commerce, Bankruptcy, and giving a bibliography.

Volume 32 covers Spain, with bibliography, a chapter on judicial procedure in mercantile civil matters, the commercial code, covering merchants and commerce in general, and also special commercial contracts: maritime commerce, bankruptcy. This book has over 600 pages, the Spanish being on the one side, the English translation on the other.

These volumes are uniform with the others in half dark green morocco. Thirty-five volumes will complete the work, but single volumes may be had if desired. Libraries of all large cities will find this set of books well worth consideration. Sample volume for examination on request.

READING LIST ON CHEKHOV AND ECHEGARAY

Compiled by Carnegie Library, Pittsburgh, Pa.

CHEKHOV

Chekhov, Anton Pavlovich. Plays; Uncle Vanya, Ivanoff, The sea-gull, The swan song; tr. from the Russian, with an introduction by Marian Fell. 233 p. N. Y., 1912. Scribner, $1.50 net.

"His plays are a series of original experiments rather than a finished whole. . . . Tchekhov retains the form of the four-act play, dealing throughout with the same group of persons. He is concerned with ideas only as the means of drama, and what he lacks is sense of the theatre rather than dramatic sense." Dukes.

— (The) Cherry garden; a comedy in four acts, tr. from the original Russian by Max S. Mandell, with an introduction by the translator; published under the supervision of the Dramatic department of the Yale Courant. 72 p. New Haven, 1908. Yale Courant, 75c.

"A comedy of the ineffectual. The cherry orchard is upon the estate of an old Russian family. At the head of the family are the countess and her brother, impractical, sentimental, completely out of touch with the time, knowing neither themselves nor the world. The estate is burdened with debt, and is finally sold. . . . It is bought by a merchant whose forbears were serfs on the estate. It is an epilogue to the 'emancipation' — the passing of the old order. It is a picture of Russian society in the upper levels, as viewed by a profoundly disillusioned critic." Saturday Review.

— Two plays: The seagull, and The cherry orchard; tr. with an introduction and notes by George Calderon. 155 p. N. Y., 1912. Kennerley, $1.25 net.

"In the play called The seagull Tchekhoff himself shows the result of external influence, although he is no mere copyist. It is a queer mixture of modern realism, symbolism, romanticism, and conventional melodrama." Nation.

Reviewed in Athenæum, Feb. 24, 1912, 139: 234-5, by P. Kropotkin; Saturday Rev. April 13, 1912, 113: 453-4, by John Palmer; Nation, July 18, 1912, 95: 65; Dial, June 16, 1912, 52: 470; N. Y. Times, May 5, 1912, 17: 272; Bellman, May, 1911, 12: 595.

NON-DRAMATIC WORKS.

Chekhov, Anton Pavlovich. (The) Black monk, and other stories; tr. from the Russian by R. E. C. Long. 314 p. Lond., 1903. Duckworth, 6s.

"In Chékhov we make the acquaintance of Old Russia as, awaiting the descent of the angel into the pool of Siloam, it vegetates rather than lives, dreams and slumbers, and ask in astonishment where foreshadowings or guarantees of a change, of an alteration for the better, could be forth-coming." Brückner.

Reviewed in Athenæum, Feb. 13, 1904, 123: 205; Outlook (English) Nov. 14, 1903, 12: 433.

— (The) Kiss, and other stories; tr. by R. E. C. Long. 326 p. Lond., 1908. Duckworth, 6s.

"The peculiarity of Tchekhoff's talent is that while he has created a whole procession of living characters, who speak a living tongue and act like living beings, there is hardly to be found among them a single honorable, intelligent, and good-hearted man or woman. Stupidity is their commonest attribute; those who are not stupid are feeble and morbid; those who are merely wicked are always aimlessly so; and nearly all are given to gross habits and banal sentiments which produce in the reader a feeling of choking disgust. But arid alike in their vices and virtues they are always interesting and life-like." Fortnightly.

Reviewed in Athenæum, Feb. 20, 1909, 133: 224; Outlook (English) Feb. 13, 1909, 23: 226.

CRITICISM.

Baring, Maurice. Plays of Anton Tchekov. (See his Landmarks in Russian literature. 1910. pp. 263-99.)

Very enthusiastic estimate, including a detailed analysis of the Seagull and the Cherry orchard, with a briefer review of the Three sisters.

Bruckner, Alexander. [Chekhov.] (See his Literary history of Russia. 1908. pp. 532-7.)

Good biographical and critical sketch.

Courtney, William Leonard. Anton Tchekhoff. (See his Development of Maurice Maeterlinck. 1904 p. 154-62.)

Dukes, Ashley. Anton Tchekhov. (See his Modern dramatists. 1905. pp. 190-210.)

Deals mainly with the Seagull and the Three sisters.

Keeton, A. E. Anton Tchekhov. (See Academy Jan. 9, 1904, 66: 40.)

Singularly inadequate and unappreciative estimate of his work, as story-writer rather than dramatist.

Long, Robert Edward Crozier. Anton Tchekhoff. (See Fortnightly Rev., July 1902, 78: 103-18.)

Same article in Living Age, Sept. 20, 1902, 234: 720-32; and in Electric Mag. Nov., 1902, 139: 586-98.

Discerning criticism of his short stories, giving analyses of many of them, the dramas being dismissed in a few condemnatory sentences.

Palmer, John. Two plays for the few. (See Saturday Rev., June 3, 1911, 111: 677-8.)

Chiefly devoted to a very appreciative analysis of the Cherry orchard.

Phelps, William Lyon. Chekhov. (See his Essays on Russian novelists. 1911. pp. 234-47.)

Interesting biographical and critical sketch, including his plays.

ECHEGARAY

Echegaray, Jose. (The) Great Galeoto, and Folly or saintliness; two plays done into English prose, with an introduction, by Hannah Lynch. Lond., 1895. Lane, 5s. 6d. net.

"The great fame of José Echegaray rests upon his play of 'El Gran Galeoto,' which was produced for the first time in 1881 and is therefore almost a classic. In this play he reached the climax of his talent, for he accomplished an almost impossible feat. He constructed a drama of thrilling interest in which the principal personage never appears upon the scene, and yet he is the one who animates it with life, who creates the situations, and who precipitates the catastrophe." Atlantic.

Central idea of the Great Galeoto is the immense and devastating power of slander.

The moral problem to be solved in Folly or saintliness, sometimes translated Saint or madman, is whether an imposture, begun in ignorance, and harmful to no one, must be made public when discovered, even at the loss of all one's worldly goods and happiness.

Reviewed in Academy, Nov. 2, 1895, 48: 358-9, by W. Webster.

Echegaray, Jose (continued)

— (The) Madman divine (El loco dios); a prose drama in four acts; tr. from the Spanish by E. H. West. (See Poet-lore, 1908, 19: 3-86.)

Published also by Badger, Bost. 1909. $1.25.

Fuensanta, a rich widow, surrounded by greedy and intriguing relatives, succeeds in marrying Gabriel, her brilliant but eccentric lawyer, whom the rest hate and fear. They accuse him of madness, in order to get him away, but Gabriel, actually at last grown insane, and believing himself God, sets fire to the house when they are about to capture him, and all perish together.

— Mariana; an original drama in three acts and an epilogue, tr. by James Graham. Bost., 1895. Little, $1.00 net.

Published also by Unwin, Lond. 3s. 6d. net; also by Moods, pub. N. Y., 1910, 160 p. 35c. net. pa. (tr. by Federico Sardo and Carlos D. S. Wuppermann.)

"The part of Mariana, the young, fabulously rich and beautiful widow, including in its scope, as the author says, everything from light drawing-room coquetry to profound sentiment and the heights of tragedy, would be an absorbing one for any actress, and the piece, first produced in 1892, was of some time in the repertory of Mrs. Patrick Campbell, and played by her in this country." Poet-lore.

Reviewed in Saturday Rev., April 27, 1895, 79: 547-9, by George Bernard Shaw; Saturday Rev., June 1, 1901, 91: 702, by Max Beerbohm; Athenæum, June 1, 1901, 117: 703-4.

CRITICISM.

Gardiner, Fanny Hale. Echegaray: Spanish statesman, dramatist, poet. (See Poet-lore, 1900, 12: 405-16.)

Discussion of his plays is chiefly an analysis of Death on the lips, translated by the author for Edwin Booth, who expressed interest in it. Both Mr. Booth and Mr. Barrett, however, found it too sombre and too much concerned with religious matters to suit American audiences.

Lynch, Hannah. José Echegaray. (See Contemporary Rev., Oct., 1893, 64: 576-95.)

Considers at length the least and the most popular of Echegaray's plays — The Son of Don Juan and The Grand Galeoto — emphasizing the "passion of gravity with which the Spanish dramatist enters into the obscurer and less picturesque tragedies of life."

Smith, Nora Archibald. José Echegaray. (See Poet-lore, May-June, 1909, 20: 218-28.)

Enthusiastic appreciations of his plays, discussing in particular The wife of the avenger, Folly or saintliness, Mariana and The Grand Galeoto. Contains good biographical sketch and concludes with a translation of Samper's sonnet on Echegaray.

Spain's homage to Echegaray. (See Review of Rev., May, 1905, 31: 613-4.)

In recognition of his sharing the Nobel prize for literature with Mistral in 1904, public honors were paid Echegaray; and two Madrid illustrated weeklies, "Blanco y negro" and "Nuevo Mundo" each devoted practically an entire number to articles concerning him and his work.

Wallace, Elizabeth. Spanish drama of today. (See Atlantic Mo., Sept., 1908, 102: 357-66.)

Includes estimate of Echegaray with characterization of two of his plays.

Explanatory. Inclusive pages of articles indexed are given. If less than a page, the fractions ($\frac{1}{8}$) ($\frac{1}{2}$) ($\frac{3}{4}$) ($\frac{5}{8}$) are used after the page to give an approximate idea of length. The volume, month and year are given for each reference. Where month and year are given preceding the pages, it indicates that each issue of that periodical pages from page 1.

"il." means illustrated. "por.," "pors.," mean article with portrait or portraits. "Portrait" means portrait only, no article. "Portrait (in group)" or "por. (in group)" indicates that one or more other persons appear in the picture. Scenes and acts from plays may be either illustrations or text, and are distinguished by adding in brackets (picture), or (text).

A colon after an initial designates the most usual given name, as per rule adopted by the A. L. A., and by Readers' Guide.
a. means only indexed in the annual.

Bulletin of Bibliography

And Quarterly Dramatic Index

Vol. 7

JANUARY, 1913

No. 4

The BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY is published by the Library Department of THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY four times a year, in January, April, July and October. Terms, $1.00 a year, 30 cents a number. Back numbers, as far as they can be supplied, 30 cents each. The volumes consist of ten numbers with title and index. Price in buckram binding, $3.00 a volume, except vols. 1 and 6, which are $3.50.

In addition to the DRAMATIC INDEX, which began with October, 1909 (vol. 6, no. 1), such original bibliographical and other material is included as seems of value to libraries. The advertisements of "Periodical Sets" in each issue are recognized as the "Prices current" of magazine files.

Correspondence concerning the BULLETIN is solicited, and lists or articles suitable for publication are desired. Address

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY, 83-91 Francis St., Fenway, Boston, Mass.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

NEW YEAR'S GREETING.

Another year is beginning. We take this opportunity to wish our friends and customers, our readers and contributors, a very happy and prosperous New Year.

We thank our customers for their patronage and hope to merit continued orders from them. We would esteem it a favor if any one having suggestions as to how we could improve service would write us, as it is only by criticism and suggestion that we can so plan our work for you as to be most helpful. We beg of you, when writing to bear in mind that promptness of delivery of orders, we are well aware, is the point most open to criticism. Please remember however that dealing in second-hand periodicals, collation is necessary before we can ship, and almost no set of books comes into our hands that does not prove defective on being collated. The time needed to replace bad or imperfect parts is sometimes months and even years, though ordinarily we can, from our knowledge of this field, find the desired numbers quickly.

The Library Department of the Boston Book Co.

THE MAGAZINE SUBJECT-INDEX, 1912.

We have had many letters asking regarding our plans for the Magazine Subject-Index, now that the Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature has announced a new and broader index soon to be started as a "Supplement," and also an "Industrial Arts Index." We take this opportunity therefore of saying that the Magazine Subject-Index for 1912 is in active preparation, and will be published early in the new year, as usual, having as Part II the Dramatic Index for 1912. Our policy will be, as before, to include in the Magazine Subject-Index such periodicals as are not elsewhere indexed, and now that Poole's Index is dead and the Annual Library Index has omitted all periodicals, our field will be broadened. We expect to take up many of the sets formerly indexed in Poole, and we should this year have indexed these back to 1907, where Poole left off had we been able to get an agreement with the Reader's Guide as to what division of these titles could be made between us. Therefore our index for 1912 will cover the titles of last year's volume plus certain historical and geographical periodicals for 1912, which were formerly in Poole's Index, as we shall always specialize in our index on History. Price in library buckram, $5.50 special net. Delivery extra, except where cash accompanies order.

INDEX TO LIBRARY REFERENCE LISTS.

We print in this issue the Annual Index to Reference Lists published in Library Bulletins. This, as in previous years, is compiled by the Providence Public Library. It will be found very useful in all libraries, especially the smaller ones, as giving bibliographies, more or less extensive, of subjects especially in demand. These Library Bulletins can usually be had by sending a stamp to the Library which publishes them. We have printed this Index in the Bulletin of Bibliography for the past ten years and the period from October, 1901, to December, 1906, was covered by reprinting in pamphlet form in one alphabet. This pamphlet is still available (price 25 cents), and back numbers of the Bulletin containing the other annual installments can usually be had for 30 cents each.

MODERN DRAMATISTS.

We know that the subject of Modern Drama and Opera is much referred to these days in every library. The inclusion in each number of the Bulletin of Bibliography of a Reading List on some one of the notable authors in this line of work will be welcome. The chapter in this issue, compiled at Pittsburgh Public Library will be followed in our next issue by another from the same source.

Have you our little book "Modern Drama and Opera?" It covers thirteen of these authors. It is a series of annotated bibliographies. Price, $1.00, delivered anywhere. Volume 2, covering some fifteen more writers, is in preparation.

FOREIGN TRADE.

Almost every librarian has from time to time requests from some importer or exporter for information regarding the Commercial Laws of other countries. We do not believe it is generally known what an indispensable work to libraries "The Commercial Laws of the World" will be. The Boston Book Company is now issuing this valuable material in attractive form, and seven of the thirty-five volumes are now ready. In a previous issue we have reviewed the volumes on Argentine Republic and Uruguay, Colombia, Spain, Central Europe, and British Africa. We have now before us volume 18, which covers the British Dominions and Protectorates in Australasia. It is a volume of 843 pages, quarto size. May we submit a sample volume for examination, and send you circulars concerning the set, and how it will be kept up-to-date for you?

Cathleen ni Hoolihan.

Published also by Mathews. Lond. 5s. net.

The scene of this one-act play in prose is laid at Killala, near which, in 1798, Humbert's ill-starred expedition made its landing. Cathleen ni Hoolihan is the name of the Poor Old Woman, the Shan Van Vocht of the song, one of the poetic embodiments of the spirit of Ireland, who, according to tradition, when war or trouble is at hand goes up and down the land.

Countess Cathleen.

Published also by Unwin. Lond. 3s. 6d.

The story is of an Irish lady in the sixteenth century who tries to save her people from starvation during a famine. Two evil spirits in the guise of merchants are buying the peasants' souls for gold, and at last the countess gives her soul to the devil in exchange for theirs and for money to get them food.

"An atmosphere of the supernatural, an ever-present sense of mysterious powers that are at every turn influencing human life for evil or for good, is poured over the whole, and turns the every-day world to a wonder world, where angel visitants, fairies, and all the vague mythical creatures of popular tradition come and go in course." Krans.

"One of the few great love stories of the world, it has been sung and said by many tongues, and praised by many pens, but never more beautifully than by Mr. Yeats. The moment he has chosen is the home-coming, after their long wandering, of Nias and Deirdre, when King Conchubar having promised them forgiveness, has sent his chief man, Fergus, Son of Rogh, to receive them. CRITICISM.

Archer, William. William Butler Yeats. (See his Poets of the younger generation. 1902. pp. 531-57.)

Considers his poems and two of his plays, The Countess Cathleen, and The Land of Heart's Desire. Includes an interesting comparison between Yeats and Maeterlinck.

Bickley, Francis. The development of William Butler Yeats. (See Living Age, March 26, 1910, 264: 802-5.)

Author believes that in turning from lyric poetry to drama Yeats has done violence to his nature, so that his "prose plays seem pallid for lack of earthly circumstance," and "his verse plays are lyric, and lyric spoiled of half its beauty by an ugly mechanism."

Yeats and the movement. (See his J. M. Synge and the Irish dramatic movement. 1912. pp. 49-85.)

Includes brief history of the Irish Theatre.
Cary, Elisabeth Luther. Apostles of the new drama. (See Lamp, Jan. 1904, 27: 593-8.)

Considers the views of Yeats and Shaw concerning the modern stage, and some of the new elements they have contributed.

Elton, Oliver. Living Irish literature. (See his Modern studies. p. 299-308.)

Ford, Julia Ellsworth & Thompson, Kate V. The neo-Celtic poet—William Butler Yeats. (See Poet-lore, Winter 1904, 15: 83-9.)

Brief review of his work, prose, plays and lyrics.
Frothingham, Eugenia Brooks. An Irish poet and his work. (See Critic, Jan. 1904, 44: 26-31.)

Brief, interesting criticism, in which author concludes that "we see the world more dearly because of the beauty beyond it" which Yeats has shown us.

Gilman, Lawrence. The neo-Celtic drama in America (See Lamp, Oct. 1903, 27: 231-3.)

Chiefly an appreciation of The Land of Heart's Desire.

Gregory, Augusta (Persse) lady. The coming of the Irish players. (See Collier's Weekly, Oct. 21, 1911, 48: 15, 24.)

Interesting account of the Irish theatre, and its career, with Yeats' share in the undertaking.

Grierson, Herbert John Clifford. Fairies—from Shakespeare to Mr. Yeats. (See Living Age, June 10, 1911, 269: 655-8.)

Delightful essay in which Yeats is characterized as "the poet of Fairy Land, as no one since Shakespeare has ever thought of trying or wishing to be."

Gwynne, Stephen. Poetry and the stage. (See Fortnightly Rev., Feb. 1909, 91: 342-6.) Same article in Living Age, April 3, 1909, 261: 7-10.

Criticism of On Baile's strand, The shadowy waters, The king's threshold, and Deirdre as stage presentations.

An introduction to subject, written clearly and simply.

William Butler Yeats and the Irish literary revival. 196 p. Garden City, N. Y. 1904. Doubleday, 75 c. net.

"It is the aim of this book to give a sketch of the Irish literary revival that may serve as a background to the work of Mr. Yeats; to show how many phases of Irish life he has brought into literature, and in what sense he has given a new voice to the Celtic spirit; and in general to smooth the way to an enjoyment and appreciation of his poetry, plays and stories." Preface.

Macdonald, Quentin. William Butler Yeats and the "Celtic movement." (See Book News, June 1904, 22: 1024-5.) Slight.

McGill, Anna Blanche. Concerning a few Anglo-Celtic poets. (See Catholic World, Sept. 1902, 75: 777-81.)

Brief appreciation of Yeats.

McGrath, John. W. B. Yeats and Ireland. (See Westminster Rev., July 1911, 176: 1-11.)

Written on the occasion of Yeats' acceptance of a government pension, to show what he has done for Irish literature, and especially for the drama.

Macleod, Fiona (pseud. of William Sharp.) Later work of Mr. W. B. Yeats. (See North Am. Rev., Sept., 1902, 175: 473-85.)

Interesting and sane estimate of a volume of his verse, his Shadowy waters and his dramatic work in general.

Masterman, Charles Frederick Gurney. After the reaction. (See Living Age, Jan. 28, 1905, 244: 197-199.)

Brief critical estimate.

Moore, Isabel. William Butler Yeats. (See Bookman, Dec. 1903, 18: 360-3.)

Brief criticism.

O'Neill, George. Irish drama and Irish views. (See Am. Catholic Quarterly, April, 1912, 37: 322-32.)

Strongly disapproves of Yeats's position as leader of the "Irish theatre," as Synge's interpreter, and as the author of plays purporting to show Irish life and character.

Quinn, John. Lady Gregory and the Abbey theatre. (See Outlook, Dec. 16, 1911, 99: 916-9.)

Author describes a visit to Lady Gregory, where Douglas Hyde and Yeats are fellow-guests. He shows to what extent Yeats is indebted to Lady Gregory, and what she in turn owes to him, and gives an interesting glimpse of Yeats's personality.

A school of Irish poetry. (See Edinburgh Rev., Jan. 1909, 209: 96-105.)

Excellent criticism of Yeats's work, and his plays in particular, terming him "the phantast among Irish dramatic writers."

Taylor, Joseph R. William Butler Yeats and the revival of Gaelic literature. (See Methodist Rev., March 1905, 65: 189-202.)

Serves as a useful introduction to subject.

Explanatory. Inclusive pages of articles indexed are given. If less than a page, the fractions ($\frac{1}{2}$) ($\frac{1}{3}$) ($\frac{1}{4}$) are used after the page to give an approximate idea of length. The volume, month and year are given for each reference. Where month and year are given preceding the pages, it indicates that each issue of that periodical pages from page 1.

"il." means illustrated. "por.," "pors.," mean article with portrait or portraits. "Portrait" means portrait only, no article. "Portrait (in group)" or "por. (in group)" indicates that one or more other persons appear in the picture. Scenes and acts from plays may be either illustrations or text, and are distinguished by adding in brackets (picture), or (text).

A colon after an initial designates the most usual given name, as per rule adopted by the A. L. A., and by Readers' Guide.

a. means only indexed in the annual.

Bulletin of Bibliography

And Quarterly Dramatic Index

Vol. 7

APRIL, 1913

No. 5

The BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY is published by the Library Department of THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY four times a year, in January, April, July and October. Terms, $1.00 a year, 30 cents a number. Back numbers, as far as they can be supplied, 30 cents each. The volumes consist of ten numbers with title and index. Price in buckram binding, $3.00 a volume, except vols. 1 and 6, which are $3.50.

In addition to the DRAMATIC INDEX, which began with October, 1909 (vol. 6, no. 1), such original bibliographical and other material is included as seems of value to libraries. The advertisements of "Periodical Sets" in each issue are recognized as the "Prices current" of magazine files.

Correspondence concerning the BULLETIN is solicited, and lists or articles suitable for publication are desired. Address

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY, 83-91 Francis St., Fenway, Boston, Mass.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

CHARLES CARROLL SOULE

On January 7 Mr. Charles C. Soule died. He was President of the Boston Book Co., and one of the best-known members of the American Library Association. It is with a deep feeling of personal loss that we record his death. Through his initiative the BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY was founded, and by his liberality for many years it has been issued at a purely nominal price, filling, we believe, a need in the busy library world. Extended notices of Mr. Soule's life and work have already appeared in The Library Journal, Public Libraries, and The Green Bag. His presence was an inspiration, his loss will be keenly felt, and nowhere more than by his employees in the Library Department of The Boston Book Co.

OUR 1912 ANNUALS

The Magazine-Subject Index The Dramatic Index

These two Indexes for 1912, bound in one volume of 622 pages are now ready for delivery. The passing of Poole's Index (1906) and the Annual Library Index to Periodicals (1910), has left a gap in the field which we are enabled this year partially to fill. Twenty-three new titles are now added, and others will be included in 1913. THE MAGAZINE-SUBJECT INDEX covers only what is not elsewhere indexed, and is especially strong in History, Geography, Travel and Out-door Life. THE DRAMATIC INDEX (bound as Part II, and also issued separately) includes several new titles, and has a very valuable added chapter, giving by author the books of the year, also a list by author and title of Plays published in 1912. Once used, no library can do without this index, as the ever-growing interest in Drama makes it a necessity.

In Library Buckram, 622 pp. $7.00 Special net; or The Dramatic Index, separately bound, $3.50, special net. Delivery extra.

AN "IDEAL" MAGAZINE

The American Magazine by its recent changes has become, according to press notices which it quotes, a magazine, ideal in form, and a model for others to follow. May we, speaking from a library standpoint, and of its physical make-up, differ from this opinion? It has become everything that a good magazine should not be.

Its reference usefulness, when bound, will be impaired by an unwieldy size.

The change of size was made in the middle of a volume, making correct binding an impossibility.

Each number pages from page one, including advertising, making indexing a problem and reference use a bother. (McClure's has of late imitated this "ideal" feature.)

The advertising matter is now mixed in with the text, making it necessary to bind everything. (McClure's has also adopted this "improved" way of advertising.)

The magazine now has the pages glued to the back, so that when prepared for binding (and sometimes long before that time) each leaf becomes a unit, and over stitching at extra expense is necessary. (World's Work and Everybody's are also samples of this new "pad" method of binding.)

The American having changed from octavo to quarto with vol. 75 number 2, has as an afterthought hit upon a unique and hitherto untried method of issuing its index. Vol. 75, no. 1, has been indexed as a part of vol. 74, and should be bound thus, if libraries have not already bound it otherwise. The repetition of pages from one on is overcome by the use of an asterisk in the index. We wonder what next will be done to help us. Why not have the pages of each number of various sizes and shapes and serve them up loose in a bag, then all the family can read at once, and binding will be unnecessary. If this idea is adopted, we would also suggest having the first paragraphs of the articles printed on the bag, telling on what page the continuations may be found, thus automatically indexing the issue.

TITLES AND INDICES

Shall we get these fastened into our magazines, or sent us loose on the completion of a volume? Or shall we have to write for them, once or twice, whenever a volume ends? It is evident that most publishers and librarians will agree to disagree. We are perhaps not surprised to have Life announce that there will be no more indexes issued. But we are taken aback when the staid Edinburgh Review concludes that nobody cares for its indexes any more, and so suspends their issue.

PUBLIC DOCUMENTS

Vol. 1 of the third edition of the "Checklist of United States Public Documents, 1789-1909" has recently been issued by the Government Printing Office. It makes a thick volume of 1707 pages, and is an approximately complete checklist of all public documents issued by the United States during its first century and a quarter. Miss Mary A. Hartwell in whose charge this book has been compiled deserves much credit for the work. Volume 2 will be an index.

— The eldest son; a domestic drama in three acts. 74 p. N. Y., 1912. Scribner, 60c. net.

Published also by Duckworth. Lond., 1912.

Contrasts the attitude of an English family of the aristocracy toward an unhappy affair between two villagers, and their very different view of an exactly similar situation in which "the eldest son" is involved.

"On the surface The eldest son is not so very much better than Robertson's Caste. It is beneath the surface that the characters breathe and are alive. Yet though one of his latest, this is not one of Mr. Galsworthy's best plays; it is too thoroughly English in its conventional arrangement and contrasts. Notwithstanding, there is a sense of life in it. What the dramatist personæ talk about is in consonance with their characters." Book News Mo.

"The theme of Joy . . . takes us out of the region of Mr. Galsworthy's public interests, and gives us a proof of his quality as an observer of deep domestic things. . . . Joy is a young girl, still a child, devotedly loving her mother, who has separated from Joy's father, the bane of her life, and is on the brink of a liaison with another man." Outlook (English).

A sensitive, neurotic, lawyer's clerk, forges a check that he may rescue the woman he loves from a husband's cruelty. This is discovered, and he is tried and sent to prison, with tragic consequences involving a realistic picture of the evils of solitary confinement.

"On this side of the water Galsworthy is probably best known through the influence exerted by his play, Justice, on prison reform in England. Great as this practical achievement was, it tends, however, to give a false idea of Galsworthy's position in our present-day world of letters. For he is first of all an artist, not a reformer, and his main object in writing is not to effect this or that social improvement, but to display to the living generation both its own innermost soul and the world it has made for itself to live in." Bjorkman.

Published also by Duckworth. 38 p. Lond., 1911. 1s 6d. net.

"A purely fanciful work, dealing with the prophetic vision of an Alpine maiden, whose placid love for a rugged mountaineer is disturbed by the intrusion of a city wooer. . . . The dialogue . . . exhibits literary skill and imagination, but the work as a whole will not add greatly to Mr. Galsworthy's reputation." Nation.

A soft-hearted, impulsive artist gives food and shelter to three outcasts, a French vagabond, a drunken ex-cabman, and a wayward flower-girl. Three of his friends attempt their reformation in as many different ways, but in vain.

"According to the conventional rules of the game, [this] is, perhaps, not a play at all. The author merely says — very much as the Russians have a way of saying — here are some people and this is the way they act." Collier's Weekly.

— The silver box; a comedy in three acts. 90 p. Lond., 1910. Duckworth, 2s. net.

Centers about the theft of a cigarette box and ends with a realistic trial in a police court.

"An indictment of society, although not one of its characters would accept it as such. It is more than an indictment — a complete trial, in which Mr. Galsworthy appears both for the prosecution and the defence." Dukes.

Reviewed in Theatre, May, 1907, 7: 114, 129; Ill. Lond. N., March 4, 1911, 138: 326; Pearson (N. Y.) Aug., 1909, 22: 229.

— Strife; excerpts. (See Current Lit., May 1910, 48: 537-45.)

"It has been said that Strife is a kind of tract advocating arbitration in trade disputes. It is nothing of the kind. The inference may be drawn from the play, but the dramatist's real business is to show that love of battle and of domination stand in the way of reasonable settlement of such disputes as they stand in other human affairs. That motive gives a permanent value to Strife as drama, and long after the warfare between capital and labor has ceased to exist the play will have value as drama pure and simple." Fortnightly Rev.

CRITICISM.

Baughan, Edward Algernon. John Galsworthy as dramatist. (See Fortnightly Rev., May 1909, 91: 971-7.)

Largely an appreciation of his Strife.

Bjorkman, Edwin. John Galsworthy; an interpreter of modernity. (See his Is there anything new under the sun? 1911. p. 183-200.) Same. (See Review of Rev., May 1911, 43: 634-6.)

Interesting analysis of Galsworthy's work based chiefly on his novels.

Dual genius of John Galsworthy. (See Current Lit., Jan., 1910, 48: 81-3.)

Quotes recent estimates of his work, particularly of Strife.

Dukes, Ashley. John Galsworthy. (See his Modern dramatists. 1905. pp. 141-50.)

Rather unfavorable criticism, chiefly concerned with The silver box and Justice.

John Galsworthy. (See Harper's Weekly, April 6, 1912, 56: 6.)

Brief but sympathetic estimate of his work and its purpose.

John Galsworthy. (See Outlook, March 23, 1912, 100: 608*-9.)

Editorial on author and his views occasioned by the production of The Pigeon in New York's "Little Theatre."

(A) Literary invasion of the stage. (See Lit. Digest, Mar. 23, 1912, 44: 592-3.)

Quotes from Galsworthy's statements to the New York press, when he was directing the production of The Pigeon at the Little Theatre.

Moses, Montrose Jonas. Galsworthy-dramatist. (See Book News Mo., July 1912, 30: 771-4.)

Excellent critical article, including brief sketch of his life.

Roberts, W. J. John Galsworthy, an impression. (See Book News Mo., July 1912, 30: 764-70.)

Describes an interview at his country home in Dartmoor.

Skelton, Isabel. John Galsworthy, an appreciation. (See World To-day, Aug. 1911, 21: 995-9.)

Considers his novels as well as his plays.

Not as perfectly finished as Synge's other plays, since his death prevented its revision. In place of the dreamy modern beauty of the plays derived from the same legend by Yeats and A. E., Synge gives us the vigor and life of the original.

"His splendid simplification of the old brave story is the first to make it truly and strongly dramatic . . . and while he simplified and heightened, he elaborated also, so that in none of the other plays, not in the Playboy even, do we find the action arising out of, and expressing so many twists and turns of character." Howe.

"From the moment of the rise of the curtain on that little Wicklow interior, to its fall—about half an hour—we are let into the lives of three people, and the life and death of a fourth. It is a selected half-hour that marches moment by moment with true occurrence, and yet opens out into years that have passed and years that are to come." Howe.

On its production in 1907 it met with fierce opposition in Dublin, and later, with considerable outcry in this country, as a libel on the Irish peasantry.

"The Playboy is . . . not alone a well-nigh faultless play; its deeper interest is that it chances to be the play in which Synge most fully found himself. The situation of a soul finding itself caused his brooding genius to expand to the fullest. All the music of speech that he had learned from Aran to Wicklow strikes its richest harmonies as Christy's tongue learns its own power." Fortnightly Rev.

"One of those achievements before which the voice of criticism is dumb. Tiny as its scale, it is as plainly stamped with greatness as Hamlet or the Agamemnon. It is the most imaginative, the most passionate of all Synge's work, yet as true as any to the life he was seeking to express. All the terror of life in the fretted islands, all the mystery and cruelty of the sea are in it." Bickley.

A saint restores their sight to two old beggars, man and wife; but their illusions are gone and they must work for their living, so when their blindness returns, they refuse a second miracle.

"There is nothing experimental in The well of the saints. It is so complete and powerful a play, that one can think only of the experiments which must have preceded it and made it possible; Synge's consideration, perhaps of Les Aveugles of Maeterlinck, by which he was able to secure for the theatre the whole of the tingling sensitiveness of the blind, and to reject the paleness of their humanity as they come from the cold hands of Maeterlinck." Howe.

Contents: Synge's career; Theory and Practice; Synge's plays; Yeats and the movement; The Irish Theatre; The lyrics; Synge's poems.

Brief review of Synge's life and work, written especially to show where he stood in relation to his contemporaries.

— Synge and the drama. (See New Quarterly, Feb. 1910.)

Blake, Warren Barton. A great Irish playwright: John M. Synge. (See Theatre Mag., June, 1911, 13: 202, 204.)

Brief appreciation of his dramas.

— John Synge and his plays. (See Dial, Jan. 16, 1911, 50: 37-41.)

Excellent biographical and critical article.

- Figgis, Darrell. Art of J. M. Synge. (See Fortnightly Rev., Dec. 1911, 96: 1056-68.)
(Same. See Forum, Jan., 1912, 47: 55-70.)
Very appreciative estimate.
- Gregory, Augusta (Persse), lady. Synge. (See English Rev., Mar. 1913, 13: 556-66.)
Charming personal reminiscences by one of his most sympathetic friends. Quotes from some of his letters.
- Hoare, John Edward. Ireland's national drama. (See North Am. Rev., Oct. 1911, 194: 566-75.)
Chiefly a criticism of the plays of Lady Gregory and of Synge.
- Immortalizing Synge. (See Current Lit., Dec. 1912, 53: 695.)
Excerpts from recent appreciations of the dramatist.
- [J. M. Synge.] (See Univ. Mag., Feb., 1911, 10: 91-109.)

"This book is an essay in dramatic criticism merely, seeking to make clear the beauty and the value of the plays, and their place in English drama." Author's note.
Succeeds admirably in its purpose. After a brief glimpse of Synge's life and personality, there is a clear analysis and appreciation of each play, including many quotations from the text. The sources of his dramas are studied, their design and composition, and the men and women therein portrayed. The interesting volume concludes with a chapter on Synge's three prefaces.
- Ireland's greatest dramatist. (See Lit. Digest, April 17, 1909, 38: 652.)
Quotations from newspaper articles on Synge's career called forth by his death.
- John Synge and his critics. (See Independent, Nov. 7, 1912, 73: 1071-3.)
Slight survey of his life and work occasioned by the appearance of the studies of Synge by Bickley and Howe.
- Masefield, John. John M. Synge. (See Contemporary Rev., April, 1911, 99: 470-8.)
Vivid memories of Synge by one who knew him.
- O'Neill, George. Irish drama and Irish views. (See Am. Cath. Q., April, 1912, 37: 322-32.)
Largely concerned with the plays of Synge, which he severely criticises as pictures of Ireland, and whose foreign, chiefly French, sources he suggests.
- Quinn, John. Lady Gregory and the Abbey theatre. (See Outlook, Dec. 16, 1911, 99: 916-9.)
This interesting narrative of a visit to Lady Gregory includes a brief account of several evenings spent with Synge, and comments on his work and his debt to Yeats.

- Scudder, Vida D. The Irish literary drama. (See Poet-Lore, Spring, 1905, 16: 40-53.)
An address delivered at the opening of the Twentieth Century Club series of plays, as an introduction to the dramatic performances to follow, which included Riders to the sea.
- Sherman, Stuart P. John Synge. (See Nation, Dec. 26, 1912, 95: 608-11.)
Unusually interesting estimate of Synge, at variance with the views of advocates and disparagers alike, showing his points of contact with François Villon, Anatole France, Pierre Loti and Maeterlinck.
- Tennyson, Charles. Irish plays and playwrights. (See Quarterly Rev., July, 1911, 215: 227-34.)
Somewhat unfavorable criticism of Synge's plays.
- The rise of the Irish theatre. (See Contemporary Rev., Aug. 1911, 100: 240-7.)
Includes an account of the reception of In the shadow of the glen and the Playboy.
- Weygandt, Cornelius. John Millington Synge. (See his Irish plays and playwrights. 1913. p. 160-97.)
Discerning appreciation of Synge's work, emphasizing its basic joy or exaltation, and the prevailing qualities of grotesquerie and irony.
- Yeats, Jack Butler. Synge and the Irish, random reflections on a much-discussed dramatist from the standpoint of a fellow-countryman. (See Harper's Weekly, Nov. 25, 1911, 55: 17.)
Written by a brother of William Butler Yeats and an intimate friend of Synge.
- Yeats, William Butler. J. M. Synge and the Ireland of his time. (See Forum, Aug. 1911, 46: 179-200.)
— Same. (See his The cutting of an agate. 1912. p. 146-95.)
Interesting, but rather rambling.
- Synge and the Ireland of his time: with a note concerning a walk through Connemara with him by Jack Butler Yeats, 54 p. Churchtown, Ireland. Cuala Press. 10s. 6d. net.
Published also by Macmillan. N. Y. $1.50. Also by Kennerley, N. Y., 1911. $3.50 net.
Does not include any attempt to criticise or appraise his friend's dramatic achievement, and in fact says disappointingly little about him.
- Preface to the first edition of The well of the saints. (See his The cutting of an agate. 1912. p. 36-48.)
Written Jan. 27, 1905.
Introduces Synge to the reading public, and touches but slightly on The well of the saints. Contains the often-quoted account of Yeats' discovery of Synge, and an appreciation of the rhythm and diction of his plays.

Explanatory. Inclusive pages of articles indexed are given. If less than a page, the fractions ($\frac{1}{2}$) ($\frac{1}{3}$) ($\frac{1}{4}$) ($\frac{2}{3}$) are used after the page to give an approximate idea of length. The volume, month and year are given for each reference. Where month and year are given preceding the pages, it indicates that each issue of that periodical pages from page 1.
 "il." means illustrated. "por.", "pors.", mean article with portrait or portraits. "Portrait" means portrait only, no article.
 "Portrait (in group)" or "por. (in group)" indicates that one or more other persons appear in the picture. Scenes and acts from plays may be either illustrations or text, and are distinguished by adding in brackets (picture), or (text).
 A colon after an initial designates the most usual given name, as per rule adopted by the A. L. A., and by Readers' Guide.
 a. means only indexed in the annual.

Bulletin of Bibliography

And Quarterly Dramatic Index

Vol. 7

JULY, 1913

No. 6

The BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY is published by the Library Department of THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY four times a year, in January, April, July and October. Terms, $1.00 a year, 30 cents a number. Back numbers, as far as they can be supplied, 30 cents each. The volumes consist of ten numbers with title and index. Price in buckram binding, $3.00 a volume, except vols. 1 and 6, which are $3.50.

In addition to the DRAMATIC INDEX, which began with October, 1909 (vol. 6, no. 1), such original bibliographical and other material is included as seems of value to libraries. The advertisements of "Periodical Sets" in each issue are recognized as the "Prices current" of magazine files.

Correspondence concerning the BULLETIN is solicited, and lists or articles suitable for publication are desired. Address

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY, 83-91 Francis St., Fenway, Boston, Mass.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

SUMMER ORDERS.

At this time of year when the library staff is depleted, owing to vacation periods, orders for miscellaneous books, involving much detail work as they do, are withheld or the books left uncatalogued. We suggest, therefore, that summer is just the time to buy periodical sets, as these involve so little cataloguing.

The Boston Book Company offers in the advertising pages of this issue many valuable indexed sets, and will bind up the unbound ones to your order if desired.

BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY.

On and after October first the subscription price of the Bulletin will be $2.00 a year, 50 cents a number, and beginning with the October issue additional pages will be given in each issue. This change is made after long deliberation and after consultation with many librarians. The many expressions we have had from librarians of the value of the work we are doing leads us to believe that our subscribers will be willing to more nearly pay the printer's bill. For several years the expense of issue has steadily increased, and it was only through the enthusiasm in library work of our late President, Mr. Soule, that we have been able to continue the Bulletin so long at its purely nominal subscription price, which did not half cover cost of manufacture and mailing.

INDEXES.

The H. W. Wilson Co. has started two new indexes to periodicals. The Industrial Arts Index, of which vol. 1 no. 1 is Feb., 1913, and Readers' Guide Supplement, vol. 1 no. 1 March, 1913. Each of these will appear bi-monthly, omitting the summer number, thus making five issues each per year, and both will cumulate each issue. No price yet fixed. Examination of the initial issues of each, shows that work is done with the usual Wilson thoroughness, but the publisher is beginning very cautiously, covering a small selection from the field, with the intention of adding new titles from month to month. Until the end of the year, therefore, any extended comment would be out of place. It seems unfortunate that the Industrial Arts Index should begin by excluding such architectural publications as American Architect and Architecture, which are in no index, and take Brickbuilder and Architecture and Building which have been indexed, one from the beginning, the other for six years in the Magazine Subject-Index. The inclusion, at present, of The Journal of Accountancy when all the other titles are technical, seems strange, especially as that is also already indexed, and when such sterling periodicals as The American Journal of Science and Arts have found no place in the initial issues. Still we must reserve our criticism until later, and hope that these apparent inconsistencies will disappear. The two new indexes are valuable and will be welcome in all large libraries. We agree with the publisher's suggestion that author entries might much better give place to additional subject material in the Industrial Arts Index.

The New York Times has issued the first volume of an index to its files. This covers January to April, 1913, making a book of 275 pages. The Index will be quarterly, $6 a year.

NEW BOOKS AND PAMPHLETS.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY MOVEMENT IN THE UNITED STATES, 1853-1893, by Samuel Swett Green, Librarian Emeritus Worcester Public Library, and former President A. L. A. This book, of interest to all librarians and those who are watching the progress of library development, will be published early in the fall by The Boston Book Co. Mr. Green from 1876, the time of the formation of the A. L. A., was in a position to know the trend of library development, and much of its success was due to his own efforts. This book, in a sense autobiographical, gives an intimate view of the men and women who in the early days were identified with progress in this field. It fixes in a permanent form the story of the beginnings of one of the great educational movements of the nineteenth century. Price $2.25 net.

THE LAWYER IN LITERATURE, by John Marshall Gest. xiv, 249 pp., octavo, Boston, The Boston Book Co., 1913, $2.50.

This is a most interesting volume of essays, and will be a welcome accession in all public libraries.

Judge Gest writes most entertainingly of "The law and lawyers of Dickens, (and Pickwick), of Scott, of Balzac." There are chapters also upon "The influence of Biblical texts upon English law," "The writings of Sir Edward Coke," "The historical method of the study of the law," etc.

INDEX TO LIBRARY REPORTS, by Katharine T. Moody, American Library Association, 1913. 185 pp. sm. 8vo., $1.00.

This Index covers the reports, in most cases from their first issue to 1912, of some 175 libraries and library commissions of the United States and Canada. It opens a most useful and hitherto neglected field of reference, — covering legislation, historical sketches, bibliographies, biographies and and tributes, plans of libraries, by-laws, regulations, etc.

COMMERCIAL LAWS OF THE WORLD. Volume 16 has appeared covering the Empire of India, Ceylon, Straits Settlements, Federated Malay States, Johore, Kedah, Perlis, Kelantan, Trengganu, North Borneo, Brunei, Sarawak, Hongkong, Weihaiwei, and Cyprus. Like the previously issued volumes of the American edition, this one gives in each case the laws and ordinances, list of holidays, synopsis of history and government and bibliography. It comprises 677 pages, and is bound uniform with the eight volumes previously issued. For further particulars address The Boston Book Co.

STATUTE LAW MAKING IN THE UNITED STATES by Chester Lloyd Jones. Boston, 1912, The Boston Book Co. $2.50 net.

This volume, by a recognized authority, will be found useful in all city libraries. "Since law is becoming so important a factor in shaping the economic and social conditions under which we live, it is essential that the making of statutes should receive greater attention."

Two pamphlets recently issued by the American Library Association deserve notice. "Periodicals for the Small Library" by Frank K. Walter is an admirably well done piece of work, and gives at a glance just what the librarian of a small library needs regarding magazines and reviews — selection, subscription, binding, back files, general indexes to periodicals and the reference use of magazines.

Training for Librarianship, by Miss Mary W. Plummer, being a chapter of the forthcoming A. L. A.

Manual of Library Economy, forms a pamphlet of seventeen pages. It gives the requirements for admission, a list of subjects taught, and enumerates the various Library Schools.

A City-Planning Classification, Preliminary Outline has been issued by The Harvard University Press, price 10c. It is by James S. Pray and Theodora Kimball of the School of Landscape Architecture. We commend it to all librarians as a helpful scheme. The City Planning Classification Scheme, in its completed form, with alphabetic subject-index, will be published later in the summer, price 50 cents.

PERIODICALS.

Harper's Bazar has been sold by the Harpers to the "Cosmopolitan group," owned by Mr. Hearst.

Harper's Weekly, beginning June 1, 1913, is transferred from the Harpers to Norman Hapgood and associates, Mr. Harvey relinquishing the editorship.

Collier's Weekly from May, 1913, reduces its price from 10 c. to 5 c. an issue, and is now $2.50 a year.

The Chautauquan, a monthly since it started in 1880, became weekly in June, with an issue every Saturday, and a double number once a month; it thus seems to become a member of the same class as Outlook and Independent.

Cassier's Magazine, having slept after its November, 1912, issue awakes again with June, 1913, under new management and extends all its subscribers six months.

New England Magazine skipped its issue of Feb., 1913, the 48th volume being complete in five issues. No titles and indexes have yet been published for the late volumes of this magazine.

Henderson. The new drama in England. Forum, 45: 707-24, June, 1911.

"The new drama in England today, with Bernard Shaw and Granville Barker as its leading exponents, is essentially an experimental school. . . . The Independent theatre failed in its effort, as did the New Century theatre, to bring to the fore a group of budding dramatists . . . the next step . . . is found in the establishment of the Stage Society of London. . . . The Stage Society has played in England, the role which has been played on the continent by the Theatre Libre, L'Œuvre, and the Freie Bühne. From it came Bernard Shaw and Granville Barker, soon to be united in an enterprise which is without parallel in the history of the English stage. The crown of the Stage Society's achievement, as Mr. William Archer once expressed it, was the presentation of Mr. H. Granville Barker to the world of dramatic art in England. . . . Little . . . has been written about Mr. Barker, with his strange austere talent, his anti-sentimental, and chiseled art, his complicated simplicity in technique, his almost fierce contempt for the normal relations of average, everyday life."

Henderson. The new drama in England. Forum, 45: 715-16, June, 1911.

This play, laid at the end of the eighteenth century, is not concerned merely with the fate and destiny of particular individuals: its theme is the moral and physical degeneration of a family. An air of langorous corruption, of polite black-guardism hangs, like a miasma, over the scene. The sense of grossness comes strongly upon one in the finale—this eugenic but unnatural solution of mating the over-civilized and devitalized woman with the coarse but pure-blooded man."

THE VOYSEY INHERITANCE.

Borsa. The English stage today. Lond. Lane, 1908, p. 114-15.

Henderson. The new drama in England. Forum, 45: 719-20, June, 1911.

"It presents analogies to a novel of Balzac, rather than to a drama of Ibsen—is rather more like a section of the Comédie Humaine laid on English soil, than like a representation of such a bourgeois family episode as that of the house of Bernick, or Borkman. It goes to the root of a problem which seems, somehow, peculiar to English life, the utter dependence of a family upon a settled source of income from conservative investment. The Voysey inheritance is a work of genius, . . . original, deeply conceived. It ends, with artistic finesse upon an unresolved cadence, imparting to the spectator, in the spectacle, a sense of the "strange, irregular rythm of life." It possesses a rare and memorable quality: we are left with a haunting sense of actuality, the impression of life, of life still going on after the curtain falls."

Production at the Kingsway theatre, Lond. Ill. Lond. News, 141: 398, Sept. 14, 1912; Amer. ed. 51: 478, Sept. 28, 1912; Sat. R. 114: 325-6, Sept. 14, 1912.

WASTE.

Henderson. The English stage today. Forum, 45: 721-2, June, 1911.

"The banning of 'Waste' by the King's reader of plays created a tremendous sensation; the incident was a vitally contributory cause to the investigation of the censorship by a joint committee of the Houses of Parliament in 1909. The theme,—adultery, a consequent illegal medical operation, the death of the patient, the effect of her death upon the correspondent, a brilliant politician, whose future is thereby ruined, is a theme from the mere mention of which one instinctively recoils, the treatment of great political, social and religious questions in the play is the most powerful, the most entirely true to life, that I have even encountered in any drama."

Winter's tale, drama. Adaptation by Granville Barker. Production at the Savoy theatre. Sept. 21, 1912.

Shakespeare's bad plays, Blackwood, 192: 691-5, Nov. 1912.

"Nothing but praise for his simple mounting. If he has avoided the pit of elaborate mounting, he has fallen into the pit of elaborate costume. As the play is overdressed, so it is over-acted."

Terry. Ox. & Camb. no. 25: 168-74, Nov. 1912.

"To sum up into one word the general impression that the remembrance of the Winter's Tale has left upon my mind, it is barocco. There has been brought to bear upon the production a vast amount of talent, a certain amount of eccentricity, and a degree of impudence."

Saturday R. 114: 391-2, Sept. 28, 1912.

"Probably the first performance in England of a play of Shakespeare's that the author would himself have recognized for his own since Burbage or, at any rate, Davenant, retired from management."

Saturday R. 114: 546-7, Nov. 2, 1912.

"Let the public first learn that Mr. Barker's production is better than anything that has been done for Shakespeare within living memory before they try to understand why it might be better than it is."

Spectator, 109: 450-1, Sept. 28, 1912.

"But when every detraction has been made, Mr. Barker's attempt can fairly be described as the most interesting Shakespearean revival that has been seen in London within the memory of this generation. He has shown that an Elizabethan play can be acted without cuts in three hours; he has brought into prominence interesting technical improvements in lighting and other stage mechanism; but, most of all, he has given real stimulus to those who are hoping for a revival of serious play-production in England."

PRELIMINARY LIST OF THE NATIONAL BIBLIOGRAPHIES OF THE SOUTH AMERICAN REPUBLICS*

Compiled by

JOHN BOYNTON KAISER

Department Librarian, Economics and Sociology, the University of Illinois Library

The National Bibliographies of the South American Republics.

To keep pace with the rapidly growing interest on the part of citizens of the United States in Latin American affairs, a number of our libraries¹ are making collections of material bearing upon the various activities of our Southern Neighbors. Reliable sources of information are, however, relatively few, though increasing, and the output of the press of Spanish America itself will be more and more in demand by all who are deeply concerned in the further development of international comity and intellectual sympathy between the peoples of the North and South American continents.

It is, therefore, highly desirable that from some authoritative source there be issued for the Spanish

American Republics something comparable to the *Selected National Bibliographies*² pamphlet of the New York State Library in which the field of national bibliography for the United States, England and the Continent is so successfully covered.

It is to contribute in a small way toward the accomplishment of this task that this preliminary list of national bibliographies of the South American states is presented. It should be observed that this is but a preliminary list and represents South America only not Spanish or Latin America as a whole, and consequently leaves out of consideration Mexico, Central America and the West Indies. In scope it is simply a list of the bibliographies of books and periodicals printed in the several South American states, omitting histories of literature, essays, literary criticism, collective literary biography, general collections of writings and anthologies, although, in a sense, these

* This list has been reprinted as a small octavo pamphlet printed on one side of the paper. Price 25c., postpaid, on receipt of price.

cover the national literary output of their respective countries. Moreover, the national bibliographies of Spain and Portugal are not given, although the bibliography of South America is inextricably bound up with that of these two countries whose colonial possessions the South American states once were. For them other lists are already available and need not be duplicated in the present instance.³

This list includes several titles whose place here might be questioned. They are the catalogues of certain libraries, mainly national libraries, of the separate countries concerned. Such titles are not, strictly speaking, national bibliography, but the collections catalogued contain so great a percentage of the local imprints that their presence may be permitted in a list which is purely preliminary and provisional and which should therefore err on the side of inclusion rather than exclusion. All other titles more nearly subject, rather than national bibliography are meant to be excluded.

The sources used in preparing this list were the familiar bibliographies of bibliography of Courtney, Stein and Petzholt, the Subject Index of modern books, in the British Museum, 1881-1910, Peddie's National Bibliographies, Coester's Bibliography of Spanish-American Literature and Professor Hiram Bingham's valuable discussion of "The Possibilities of South American History and Politics as a Field for Research," with its extensive footnotes.

The compiler regrets that the present inaccessibility of most of the titles given has prevented him from paying proper regard to the cataloguer's art and presenting the details of imprint either consistently or with the uniform fullness demanded of the exact bibliographer.

To Dr. Alfred Coester, Professor of Spanish in the Commercial High School, Brooklyn, New York, cordial acknowledgment is made for his work in identifying numerous titles and in adding several of importance from the collections in the Library of the Hispanic Society of America.

Explanatory. Inclusive pages of articles indexed are given. If less than a page, the fractions ($\frac{3}{8}$) ($\frac{1}{2}$) ($\frac{3}{4}$) are used after the page to give an approximate idea of length. The volume, month and year are given for each reference. Where month and year are given preceding the pages, it indicates that each issue of that periodical pages from page 1.
 "il." means illustrated. "por.", "pors.", mean article with portrait or portraits. "Portrait" means portrait only, no article.
 "Portrait (in group)" or "por. (in group)" indicates that one or more other persons appear in the picture. Scenes and acts from plays may be either illustrations or text, and are distinguished by adding in brackets (picture), or (text).

A colon after an initial designates the most usual given name, as per rule adopted by the A. L. A., and by Readers' Guide.
 a. means only indexed in the annual.

Bulletin of Bibliography

And Quarterly Dramatic Index

Vol. 7

OCTOBER, 1913

No. 7

The BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY is published by the Library Department of THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY four times a year, in January, April, July and October. Terms, $2.00 a year, 50 cents a number. Back numbers, as far as they can be supplied, 30 cents each. Volumes 1-6 consist of ten numbers, vol. 7, of 7 numbers, with title and index. Price in buckram binding, $3.00 a volume, except vols. 1 and 6, which are $3.50 and vol. 7, $2.50.

In addition to the DRAMATIC INDEX, which began with October, 1909 (vol. 6, no. 1), such original bibliographical and other material is included as seems of value to libraries. The advertisements of "Periodical Sets" in each issue are recognized as the "Prices current" of magazine files.

Correspondence concerning the BULLETIN is solicited, and lists or articles suitable for publication are desired. Address

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY, 83-91 Francis St., Fenway, Boston, Mass.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

THE BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY.

As announced in our last issue the BULLETIN will from this issue be enlarged, and the subscription price becomes $2.00 a year, at which price all renewals will be made. The extra pages will give us an opportunity to print more of the useful reading lists and bibliographies than hitherto, and it is hoped that the new price will more nearly return to us the cost of printing. We hope that our BULLETIN has proved itself sufficiently necessary in the past sixteen years to warrant our belief that, having allowed a liberal margin for the value of our advertising pages, all subscribers will be willing to bear the cost of paper and printing. We hope no one will cancel his subscription.

We have closed volume 7 with this issue, and enclosed — wired in the middle where it can be readily removed — is a title and index for the volume. Henceforth our volumes will end with the years and thus do away with a constant source of perplexity on the part of subscription agencies.

GREEN'S PUBLIC LIBRARY MOVEMENT.

We hope all will read the review of this new book which we print herewith. Miss Helen E. Haines, for many years managing editor of the Library Journal, has a wide knowledge of the field covered, and a personal acquaintance with many of the men and women responsible for our country's present pre-eminent position in all library development. Mr. Green has written a book that every librarian should own and study.

DANISH BOOK TERMS.

Mr. Axel Moth's list, in this issue of Danish Terms used in Bibliographies, and by the book and printing trades, will be found very full as was his Italian list concluded in our last issue. We shall continue this useful series in future issues of the BULLETIN.

SOUTH AMERICAN REPUBLICS.

The growing importance of South America, and the difficulty of finding adequate material in print concerning those wide awake republics will make the little pamphlet just issued by The Boston Book Co. very timely. The National Bibliographies of the South American Republics by John Boynton Kaiser is issued as a pamphlet of 24 pages, printed only on one side of the paper, so as to allow for future additions and annotations. Though much fuller than any list hitherto published, Mr. Kaiser modestly calls this a "preliminary list." Price 25 cents, net, postpaid, on receipt of price. Stamps accepted in payment.

SMOKE.

We are in receipt of Mr. Ellwood H. McClelland's monograph, "Bibliography of Smoke and Smoke Prevention." It is issued as Smoke Investigation Bulletin No. 2 of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, University of Pittsburgh. Mr. McClelland, as Technology Librarian of the Carnegie Library, Pittsburgh, has had unusual opportunity for such a compilation and the bibliography is very full, covering the subject in its broadest sense, including references to the laws of the different States, and of Canada; and the smoke problem in different localities both in this country and in Europe. It makes a pamphlet of 164 pages. Price, 50c.

Harper's Weekly has again changed its size in the middle of a year. Beginning with the issue of Aug. 16, 1913, when Mr. Norman Hapgood assumed the editorship, the page was made two inches narrower, and two inches shorter. The price was raised at the same time from $4.00 to $5.00 a year. Fortunately the new publishers were wise enough to commence a new volume, so the problem of binding is simplified, except for those libraries which have been binding this weekly in half year volumes. It may be too late to include July and the first two issues of August in the first half year volume where they would now of necessity be bound, thus completing volume 57.

New England Magazine, which has been somewhat tardy in appearance of late, has in press a double number for Aug.-Sept., in which it is hoped to include indexes of vols. 44 to 49. We hope this plan will be followed.

Twentieth Century Magazine has ceased publication. April, 1913, was the final issue.

S. S. GREEN'S.

"PUBLIC LIBRARY MOVEMENT."*

With the exception of the first ten pages, reminiscence rather than history is the proper characterization of Mr. Green's welcome volume. Reminiscence, of course, is history in the making, the raw material of personal incident and point of view without which as foundation no later historical structure is possible. Such raw material Mr. Green gives abundantly, in a record apparently somewhat rambling yet when analyzed, diligent and careful, covering primarily the growth and development of the American Library Association during its first seventeen years, and incidentally including a great amount of detail—personal, biographical, and bibliothecal—regarding libraries and librarians. As librarian of the Worcester Public Library, Mr. Green's own active share in the American public library movement began in 1871, and continued until 1909. He closes this record, however, with the year 1893, partly, it is evident, with the feeling that his own broader activities after that date began to lessen, and partly probably also because the last twenty years have seen a public library development so monumental, so far-reaching, and so varied, that its record could hardly be threaded on a single cord of personal recollection.

The Librarians' Convention of 1853 is, of course, the starting point for all chronicles of organized American library development. To this Mr. Green devotes his first chapter, summarizing the proceedings as reported at the time in Norton's Literary Register, giving brief personal or biographical comment on the participants, and emphasizing the curious fact that this meeting brought forth proposals for centralized printing of catalog titles (Professor Jewett's "mud catalogue"), for a central catalog of all books in the libraries of the country, for better distribution of public documents, and for "the promotion of popular libraries"—all subjects that in more or less varying guise were to hold their place in library conventions and library literature for the next half century and more. With the second chapter opens the record of the beginnings of American library organization in 1876, that chronicle of events and persons familiar to all library workers today through memories of personal acquaintance and association, or through the volumes of the library periodicals; but of which hardly half a score remain who, like Mr. Green, can say—"all of this I saw, much of it I was." He dwells, of course, upon the potent influences of that notable year, the publication of the memorable Government report on libraries, the organization of the American Library Association, and the founding of the Library Journal, linking with these a chain of varied comment, often personal, always salient and interesting.

The successive chapters, each, roughly speaking, covering about a year, follow a generally similar arrangement; in most of them first place is given to the A. L. A. Conference in its due chronological order, with note of leading papers or special characteristics of programme, with descriptions of hospitalities, sight-seeing and post-conference trips, drawn evidently from a store of happy memories, and with comment upon the leaders in the ranks and the newcomers entering year by year, to come in their turn to leadership; then follow brief notes of the chief library events of the year, libraries established or re-organized, library buildings, and the successive often scattered steps toward library training, library extension, library associations, and the formulation of technique; and for each chapter there is personal comment on librarians, sometimes in considerable biographical detail. The whole effect is rather broken and desultory, for the style is that of informal recollection, in brief, plain statement, and recollection has been constantly fortified by digest or excerpt from A. L. A. Proceedings and the pages of the Library Journal. The book will hardly appeal to those outside the library field, but within that field it has permanent value and interest, and is fittingly characterized by the name of the series in which it appears—the "useful reference series."

It may be demurred that Mr. Green's volume is a record of the American Library Association rather than one of American public library development. But no one who has studied this subject can fail to see how inseparable is this connection, and that the history of American libraries, especially for the period here covered, is also the history of the national association. One doubts if any kindred association has been as potent in its influence upon the institutions or the calling that it represents. The relatively small number of active workers enlisted in the ranks during the earlier years made for rapid dissemination of principles and opinions, for quick interplay of mind upon mind; the high ideals, earnestness, and intellectual qualities of the leaders set at once standards still accepted and admired; the lack of funds meant the best and hardest work of all, the volunteer work of those who labor for their ideals. Everyone who can look back upon any share in the long series of A. L. A. conferences must feel deeply that there can be very few organizations that have kept so long and so unimpaired so strong a spirit of vitality and fellowship.

Many are the familiar names that run through Mr. Green's reminiscences. Winsor, Poole, Lloyd P. Smith, Cutter, Dewey, and Henry Bradshaw, receive, perhaps, the most detailed notice; but almost every man and woman identified with American libraries during the years covered is mentioned, and many English librarians. Personal experience, of course, is interwoven throughout, and is perhaps especially interesting in connection with the First International Convention of 1877. Indeed every librarian who dips into the volume will find the stage set with familiar scenes and actors, and will glean many an interesting and unremembered bit of information or edification—such as the first bold essay at Sunday opening in New England, at Worcester in 1872; or the organization of the first local association, the long-defunct Western Library Association, in 1881; or, more recent but still to be classed as ancient history, the hesitating advocacy in 1890 of permitting readers a limited access to shelves.

Miss Grace Moore furnishes a compact index, very satisfactory for proper names but occasionally lacking in subject fullness.

ARTHUR SCHNITZLER (1862-)

A BIBLIOGRAPHY

TRANSLATIONS, PRODUCTIONS, AND CRITICISM IN ENGLISH

Compiled by Professor Archibald Henderson, M.A., Ph.D. University of North Carolina

ARTHUR SCHNITZLER.

On May 15, 1862, was born this, the leading Austrian dramatist of today. His father was a famous physician; and he himself received his degree as doctor of medicine in 1885. From 1886 to 1888 he saw active hospital service, and since 1888, has enjoyed an extensive private practice in Vienna. An experienced pathologist, he is likewise a clever psychologist. In 1908 the Grillparzer Prize was awarded him. Short stories and novels, as well as dramas, are equally the work of this literary adept. His dramas, in chronological order, are as follows: Das Märchen, (1895); Anatol, (1895); Liebelei, (1896); Freiwild, (1897); Das Vermächtnis, (1899); Drei Einakter: Der Grüne Kakadu, Paracelsus, Die Gefährtin, (1899); Der Schleier der Beatrice, (1900); Lebendige Stunden: Lebendige Stunden, Die Frau mit dem Dolche, Die Letzten Masken, Literatur, (1902); Reigen (1903); Der Einsame Weg, (1904); Zwischenspiel, (1905); Der Ruf des Lebens, (1906); Marionetten: Der Puppenspieler, Der Tapferer Cassian, Zum Grossen Wurstel, (1906); Komtesse Mizzi, (1909); Der Junge Medardus, (1910).

Arthur Schnitzler is a master of the one-act form of drama; and his most popular success has been Anatol. The play of his which has left the most permanent impression is the tragedy in three acts, Liebelei. In the extended five-act drama, Schnitzler has not won genuine success.

III. PRODUCTIONS.

Das Märchen, 1895. Produced in unpublished English version of C. E. Wheeler and H. G. Barker, by the Adelphi Society at the Little Theatre, London, Feb., 1912. Accounts in "Academy," 82: 146-7, Feb. 3, 1912; "Saturday Review," 113: 138-9, Feb. 3, 1912.

"The play is a powerful one, — the characters are drawn with a subtle harmony which is never conspicuous, but which is art. There are no glaringly preposterous discrepancies of situation or character calculated to arouse the popular sense of humour; no mock heroics; there is no sickly sentimentality."

— Academy.

Anatol, 1895. Produced at the Palace Theatre, London, Mar., 1911. Account in "Academy," 80: 268, Mar., 4, 1911.

— Produced at the Little Theatre, London, Mar., 1911. Accounts in "Illustrated London News," 138: 370, Mar., 18, 1911; Amer. ed. 48: 434, Ap., 1911; "Saturday Review," 111: 246, Feb. 25, 1911.

— The drama in London. By G. C. A. Jonson. "The Drama," No. 2, pp. 172-3, May, 1911.

The "Affairs" of Anatol. Produced at the Little Theatre, N. Y., Oct., 1912. Accounts and illustrations in "Life" (J. S. Metcalfe), 60: 2050, Oct. 24, 1912; "Munsey," (M. White, Jr.), 48: 527, Dec., 1912; "Collier's" (A. Ruhl), with pictures of scenes, 50: 18, 34, Nov. 2, 1912; "Theatre" (E. E. Vom Baur), illustrated, 16: 106, 108, 110, Oct., 1912; "Dramatic Mirror," 68: 6, Oct. 16, 1912; Sketch in "N. Y. Dramatic News," 56: 19, Oct. 19, 1912; Scenes from (pictures). "N. Y. Dramatic Mirror," 68: Nov. 6, 1912, 2; 68, Dec. 4, 1912, 3; "Harper's Weekly," 55: Oct. 26, 1912, 19; "Leslie's Weekly," 115: 297, Nov. 14, 1912; "Theatre," 16: Nov., 1912.

"It reveals, at any rate, a very delicate and charming, if slightly esoteric, sort of art — one of those entertainments which it is at least one of the functions of such a play-house as the Little Theatre now and then to provide." — Collier's.

Flirtation (Liebeleil 1896). First produced in the United States, in the unpublished translation of Grace Isabel Colbron, at the Berkeley Lyceum Theatre, N. Y., by the Progressive Stage Society, Feb. 19, 1905.

The Reckoning (Liebeleil). Produced by Katherine Grey at the Berkeley Lyceum Theatre, N. Y., in the unpublished translation of Grace Isabel Colbron, Feb. 12, 1907.

Light o' Love. (Liebeleil). Produced at His Majesty's Theatre, London, May, 1909. Account in "Illustrated London News," 134: 740, May 22, 1909.

Liebelei. Produced at the Irving Place Theatre, N. Y., Nov., 1912. Account in "N. Y. Dramatic Mirror," 68: 7, Dec. 4, 1912.

"The deeper element in Schnitzler's work which has won me, despite the shocking erotics of 'Reigen,' the graceful lewdness of 'Anatol,' the satirical contempt of 'Literatur,' is his sincere, affecting sympathy for the tragedy of the frail, young creatures so irresistibly projected, so inevitably embodied, in 'The Fairy Tale,' 'The Legacy,' and 'Light o'

Love.' These are the three plays that justify Schnitzler's title of world-dramatist and align him with the serious social dramatists of our age, headed by Ibsen, Björnson, Hauptmann, Sudermann, Shaw, and Brieux. In a sense, his whole dramatic contribution resolves itself into a study of the erotic emotions of sex, and the temperamental reactions therefrom of the male and the female of the species. — Here are real social problems vital to our own day and vital in the civilization of the future."—Archibald Henderson in North American Review.

The Green Cockatoo. (Der Grüne Kakadu, 1899.) Produced, under management of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Fiske, at Lyceum Theatre, N. Y., Ap. 11, 1910. Accounts in "Dramatic Mirror," 63: 7, Ap. 23, 1910; "Theatre," II: XXIX, May, 1910; "Bookman" (C. Hamilton), 31: 418, Je., 1910.

"Arthur Schnitzler is the cleverest dramatist writing in Austria today. — His dominant quality is a sinister and somewhat cynical worldly-wisdom, incisive, experienced, disconcerting. . . . 'The Green Cockatoo' . . . is merely a theatric tour de force. . . . But the little piece is spirited, and is brilliant in detail." — C. Hamilton in Bookman.

In the Hospital. (Die letzten Masken, 1902.) Produced, under Vedrenne-Barker management, at Court Theatre, London, Feb. 28, 1905. Account in "The Court Theatre," 1904-1907, by Desmond Marthy (A. H. Bullen, London, 1907), pp. 26, 132.

Literature. (Literatur, 1902.) Produced at Madison Square Theatre, N. Y., Jan. 13, 1908.

Literatur was often given in German at the Irving Place Theatre, N. Y. During her American engagement in 1905, Mme. Charlotte Wiehe gave The Farewell Supper as Souper d'Adieu in French. Prior to the production of Light o' Love at the Afternoon Theatre, London, in 1909, two of Schnitzler's one act pieces were produced by the New Stage Club.

IV. CRITICISM.

Masks and Minstrels of New Germany. Pollard, P. J. W. Luce and Co., Boston, 1911. Chap. 14, pp. 265-283, is entitled "Vienna's Essence: Schnitzler."

Reviewed in Bookman 33: 544-6, Jl., 1911; Nation, 93: 399, Oct. 26, 1911; N. Y. Times, 16: 299, May 14, 1911; Sat. Review, 112: sup. 6, Nov. 4, 1911; Current Literature, 51: 435, Oct. 1911. The Mirror (W. M. Reedy), The Call (E. Björkman); Springfield Republican.

"The Austrian drama of today is typified in the art of Arthur Schnitzler. In his work were all the qualities which marked the contrast between the Viennese temper and the German. Where Berlin insisted on truth, at the expense of beauty, Vienna preferred beauty to everything else. As in its Court and its lesser circles Vienna stands for all the aristocratic refinements, so the gestures and tones of the most sophisticated intelligence, of the most patrician outlook, are the paramount concerns in Viennese art. All these gestures, tones, and point of view have been simply the proper appointments for the lovely women, the sensuous music, and the enchanting cuisine for which Vienna has long been rightly famous. All that rises out of that air has had fascination, grace, insinuation, and intrigue. Neither tremendous passion nor tremendous problems have stirred, to all appearances, those polite artists of Vienna. Passion might be there, but what was to be artistically expressed was, rather the witty or ironically mournful surfaces of passion. Under the almost diabolically clever flippancies in dialogue there may be tragedy; but neither in life nor art is it good form, in Vienna, to let so middle-class an article as tragedy appear naked." — Pollard.

Modern Dramatists, Dukes, A. Frank Palmer, London, 1911. Ch. H. Sergel, Chicago, 1912. Under "Austria," chapter on Schnitzler, pp. 151-9.

Reviewed in Bellman, 12: 499, Apr., 20, 1912; Nation, 94: 396, Apr. 18, 1912; N. Y. Times, 17: 157, Mar. 24, 1912.

"Schnitzler has gone no further dramatically than Anatol and Liebelei. — One can have too much of the twilight mood, the Viennese lover and his mistress, the melancholy and the grace. — He has never made his way out of the half-world into the real world. But among the dramatists of the half-world he is supreme." — A. Dukes.

Arthur Schnitzler, the Austrian Hauptmann. "Current Literature," 39: 552, Nov., 1905.

The Plays of Arthur Schnitzler. "Bookman" (N. Y.) 25: 7, Mar., 1907.

"In Germany this young Viennese ranks as playwright with the two great matadors of the German stage, Sudermann and Hauptmann. — His plays hold a place in the repertoire of all German theatres very little behind the works of Ibsen, Sudermann, and Hauptmann; a Schnitzler first night is one of the events of the literary season in the larger cities. His plays when published in book form, fall in line, in point of sales, with the published plays of his great rivals. . . . German critics claim that the most notable quality of Schnitz-ler's work, both as dramatist and novelist, is his remarkable knowledge of feminine psychology. Possibly his profession has something to do with this. A physician has more opportunities to study the heart and mind of women at close range than have most other men. If a physician is a poet as well, he may be expected to handle the subject as one who knows."

Arthur Schnitzler. By H. B. Samuel. "Fortnightly Review," 93: 447-62, Mar., 1910.

"It seems to us that the essence of his merit lies in the fact that he handles problems neither as ends in themselves, as do the more advanced of our own dramatists, nor yet, like Sudermann, as mere pegs on which to hang violently theatrical stage effects. Some problem may constitute the center of most of his plays; yet, with a few exceptions, this problem is not presented too nakedly or without sufficient relief. Each problem is bathed in an artistic atmosphere and each character in the picture limned with the most subtle psychology. It is true that, as has already been pointed out, many of the acts in his longer dramas exhibit too strong a tendency to form self-independent pictures; yet it is this defect which forms the chief charm of his one-acters. — It is true that the ethics of these plays, with their chronic and inevitable intrigues, may strike the English mind as somewhat unusual; yet Schnitzler enjoys the reputation of being the most brilliant and accurate portrayer of contemporary Viennese life." — H. B. Samuel.

Sketch. "Bookman," 33: 623, Aug., 1911.

A Dramatist of the Twilight Soul. "Current Literature," 51: 670-2, Dec., 1911.

"The cynical genius, half sad, half gay, of Arthur Schnitzler, who invades with the weapon of psychology the twilight of the soul. . . . Arthur Schnitzler has stood for more than one decade at the head of the Austrian school of playwrights, he ranks as a veteran of the German stage and is a favorite in Berlin. — The essential genius of the man, his curious psychology, his subtle, brilliant, yet melancholy gift of analysis — these remain beyond our grasp. Like Maupassant, he is obsessed with sex, yet it is without illusion. Like Maupassant, he is enamoured of death. His phrases, like Maupassant's, are polished and piquant. Even in his own land he is considered more French than German. — In short Arthur Schnitzler may undoubtedly be called one of the few world-figures in modern drama."

Arthur Schnitzler. By P. H. Grumann. "Poet Lore," 23: 25-41, Jan.-Feb., 1912.

"In Schnitzler we have a keen, scientifically trained man, who turns his ability as a diagnostician loose upon his environment, and records what he sees. Since Vienna is his environment and since he is interested in moral problems, the erotic element occupies a large place in his works. His attitude has been termed cynical — an opinion which is scarcely correct. He is objective in agreement with the naturalistic point of view. . . . He is not the flippant dandy of literature as some have supposed, but a man who takes his art and himself seriously." — P. H. Grumann.

Arthur Schnitzler. By B. Q. Morgan. "Drama," No. 7: 3-13, Aug., 1912.

"Nothing is more characteristic of Schnitzler than the one-act piece. As there are some novelists who are at their best only in the short-story, such as Kipling in English, Maupassant in French, Rosegger in German, so there may be dramatists who should restrict themselves to the short play. Schnitzler appears to be one of these. — His art is not monumental enough for the large sweep of a great tragedy. His chosen field is the sparkling, witty dialog. He uses this for all purposes: not merely to create atmosphere and characterize subtly fine shades of personality, but also to outline stroke by stroke a dramatic setting and accompany a dramatic episode." — B. Q. Morgan.

Arthur Schnitzler. By Archibald Henderson. "North American Review," 196: 635-45, Nov., 1912.

"Schnitzler is, fundamentally, a dramatist who celebrates the 'moment and the moment's monument.' He functions most effectively in the one-act play, fittest locale for mood, temperament, and atmosphere. In the intricacies of the three-act drama Schnitzler has also been successful in finding himself. Beyond that limit he loses both his audience and himself in the vagueness of over-elaboration and the confusion of hyper-complication. His art is impressionistic and delicate — instinct with feminine grace and intuition, slightly satirical, softly melancholy. It is Vienna crossed with Paris, Wilhelmsdorf fortified with Ibsen. No other dramatist, it has been aptly said, has written tragedy with so light a hand or comedy with so ironically pathetic a smile." — Archibald Henderson.

The Work of Arthur Schnitzler. By Amelia von Ende. "Theatre," 16: xi, Jl., 1912.

"The Austrian temperament with its curious blend of light-heartedness and world-weariness, of flippant pessimism and decadent elegance determines the personalities and work of Arthur Schnitzler. Schnitzler the physician has had an extraordinary opportunity to study humanity and its abnormal conditions and naturally leans towards the pathological." — Amelia Von Ende.

Explanatory. Inclusive pages of articles indexed are given. If less than a page, the fractions ($\frac{1}{2}$) ($\frac{1}{3}$) ($\frac{1}{4}$) are used after the page to give an approximate idea of length. The volume, month and year are given for each reference. Where month and year are given preceding the pages, it indicates that each issue of that periodical pages from page 1.

"il" means illustrated. "por.", "pors.", mean article with portrait or portraits. "Portrait" means portrait only, no article. "Portrait (in group)" or "por. (in group)" indicates that one or more other persons appear in the picture. Scenes and acts from plays may be either illustrations or text, and are distinguished by adding in brackets (picture), or (text).

A colon after an initial designates the most usual given name, as per rule adopted by the A. L. A., and by Readers' Guide.
a. means only indexed in the annual.
